Price Five Cents

RALPH MCGILL

She Was Shabby And in Tears—

We waited patiently in the line before one of the parcel-post windows... the young woman who wanted only a supply of stamps: a young Negro girl who had two large packages, a middle-aged man with a small one, and the old woman who had in her hand a money-order form.

We moved slowly along, and at last the old woman, in a poor dress, and with an old shawl about her face, handed in her form. The nice, tired lady behind the window took it, and began to fill it out. I was not deliberately trying to see. Indeed, my mind was hundreds of miles away on a friend dead suddenly of a heart attack in Naples, Italy. But my eyes took it in and I saw that it was a money order made out in a man's name for $5. And, I saw, that when she took the green form and turned from the window there were tears in her eyes and on her cheeks.

I mailed my own packages, but even yet I cannot put the old woman and her tears out of my mind. Five dollars is a respectable sum, but it is small for a money order, and somehow, in all the glitter of Christmas, and the piles of rich packages, containing sweaters, books, robes and silken garments costing a hundred times five dollars, and more, that green form which was to be mailed to someone in a distant city, seemed pitiful and forlorn.

Question

Was it some wayward son, in trouble? Or just a son down on his luck? Or was there illness in a son's family, or hungry children in a home broken and sorrowed?

I will never know. But I know that when I awake on Christmas morning I will think of this old lady in her shabby clothes, turning from the post office window. There can be a heartbreak in Christmas, remembering children who have died, or facing sorrow that has come and gripped life and the heart by the throat. And the winds that blow the wreaths and make the little bells to ring, can also reach around the earth and say to men far from home, and defeated, or in war camps and in the lines, "It is warm at home and the turkey and fruit cake smell is in all the house." At the Western Union offices and at the general delivery windows of post offices on the day before Christmas there will be men and women with faces hard with disillusion, and weak from repeated sorrow, coming up and asking, "Is there a money order for me?"

And at one of them a man will open an envelope and take from it a green order entitling him to $5. Maybe he will curse it because it is not more. Perhaps he, too, will weep over it, going out of the door into the excited street with stumbling steps because his eyes are wet. It may look like a million to him. Or, maybe he is a mean, low-down man who will snarl, "Why didn't the old lady send more?"

Love

I could tell him if I knew him. I stood in the line back of her, and I saw her face and the tears. I would like to know where he is so that I could say to him, "I saw her hand in the form, and watched the woman write it out and hand the money order to her and I saw her turn with the tears in her eyes. This is a time for mothers. It is the time for Mary and her Son who died on a cross. And wherever you are and whoever you are I wish I could let you know how she looked, turning away, silent, expressionless save for the tears and the slow walk of one whose heart is heavy to carry."

I wish I could do that. I wish I could say that maybe there are two times when you can see love—that intangible emotion about which the poets write and which the tin-pan-alley song-makers cheapen and abuse. I think you can see it in the face of a happy mother holding her first child and looking down into its defenseless, innocent face. And now I think you can see it in the set, controlled face of an old woman in a shabby dress and shawl turning from a money-order window with a $5 blank in her hand made out to a son or a husband away from home and in need. And, maybe that is the heart of Christmas. Maybe the $5 was another miracle of the widow's mite. I don't know. And I wish I did.

NATO Cuts Ridgway's Request Half

Afraid of Wrecking Economic Stability

By PRESTON GROVER

PARIS, Dec. 17 (AP)—In the face of warnings from their military commanders, North Atlantic diplomatic and political leaders today cut to ribbons the proposed 428 million dollar Western defense building program for 1953.

They said such a sum might wreck their nations' economic stability.

Informants reported the request by NATO's supreme commander, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, for 428 millions to spend on building air bases and ground defense had been slashed to 210 millions. They added it might be cut still further at tomorrow's closing meeting of the NATO Council.

Ridgway has repeatedly declared that his fighting force is short of airports, radar screens, communications networks and naval port facilities.

But the foreign, defense and finance ministers of the 14 NATO nations concluded, a spokesman said, that "the risk of aggression had to be balanced against the danger of internal collapse."

Briefing officer Geoffrey Parsons, head of the NATO information staff, said eight ministers spoke and several emphasized that the economic pressure of the defense program already was increasing unemployment.

They agreed on a recommendation that the member nations "make the maximum effort without endangering their economic stability."

In other actions today, the ministers approved the strategic guidance outline drawn up by the NATO chiefs of staff, revised to take in the added responsibility—and added fighting forces—brought on by joining of Turkey and Greece to the North Atlantic pact.

Also they formally approved adding West Germany to the defense area. This action merely confirmed an early acknowledgment that an attack on the occupation zone would be met.

Crackdown Is In Force, Chief Replies

Increased traffic enforcement agreed upon at the last meeting of City Council's police committee is proceeding on schedule, Police Chief Herbert Jenkins said Wednesday in reply to traffic court criticism that persons who fail to appear for trial are not arrested immediately.

Judge Luke Arnold charged in a letter to Chairman Ed O. Gilliam of the police committee that 1,530 warrants have been issued since August against persons who failed to appear. Arnold said only a small number of the warrants have been served. He suggested that men be assigned to the court from the city marshal's office to serve the warrants.

"Serving warrants issued by the traffic court judges is strictly police business," Jenkins declared. "It is true that we have one man assigned to direct the process of serving the warrants. But he has the resources of the police department at his disposal."

"Most of the men assigned to accident investigation have a list of names of persons who have failed to appear for trial."

Traffic Violators Face Stiffer Penalties in '53

By KEELER MCCARTNEY

Speeders and repeat violators who terrorized Atlanta streets during 1952 have sharp surprises in store for 1953 under joint plans of the police department and city traffic court.

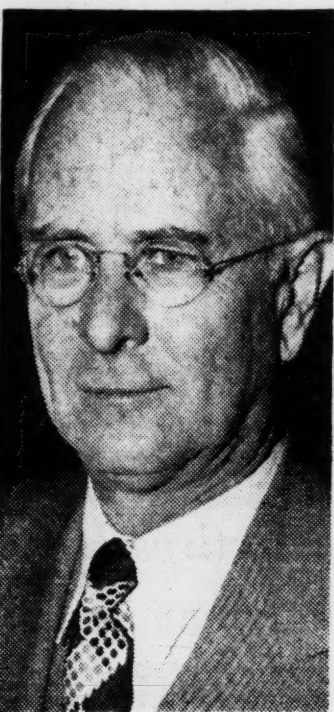

An intensified enforcement program was launched last week, after the traffic death toll for the city reached 63—nine more than were killed during 1951 in the area which now is Atlanta.

Traffic Supt. T. J. Sikes said total traffic cases have been increased by 25 per cent and that greater enforcement will continue.

Traffic Judge Luke Arnold, whose court is to be moved to more spacious quarters as soon as a suitable location can be found, says he plans to increase penalties in keeping with increased police activity.

Proposed revised scales of punishment have been submitted by Arnold to the traffic court division of the

Halt Grants To Europe, Says Sawyer

By FELIX BELAIR JR.

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—Termination of all but military aid to Western Europe and abolition of existing federal agencies administering "give away" programs was recommended today in a report to President Truman by a government-industry group headed by Charles Sawyer, secretary of commerce.

The proposal would put an end to economic aid grants for "defense support" designed to build up European munitions plants. It called for increased "off-shore procurement" orders by the United States in Europe of weapons and other material destined for use on the continent. The amount and direction of such increase was not indicated.

"Indefinite dependence on aid destroys self-respect, impairs the real strength of the recipient economy and has a capacity to destroy friendly relations between the giver and the recipient," said the report.

Permanent strength and stability for the Western European allies do not lie in continuing United States subsidies and grants but in expanding production and trade. Increased productivity per man day is the basic key to strength and this is realized by many progressive business men in Europe. Congress appropriated $1,886,000,000 for "defense support" in fiscal 1952 and $1,282,000,000 for the current fiscal year. The Mutual Security Agency which administers the program has asked budget bureau approval for another $1,000,000,000 for such grants in fiscal 1954.

In addition, the Defense Department has set an off-shore procurement goal of $1,000,000,000 this fiscal year. This contracting for military goods is being increased.

Ike Hears MacArthur Plan for Korea In Home of Dulles as Van Fleet Fixes Drive on Reds as His Price for Staying

By MARVIN STONE

Far Eastern Director,
International News Service

TOKYO, Dec. 18.—General Van Fleet will stay in the Army beyond his retirement date next month only if President-elect Eisenhower gives him the chance to "clobber" the Communists in Korea.

Authoritative sources in Tokyo made this revelation Wednesday. These sources said that if Eisenhower, after weighing U. S. commitments in Europe against the military problem of Korea, decides to permit the Korean stalemate to continue Van Fleet will accept retirement as scheduled, Jan. 24.

WANTS TO LEAD

But, the sources said, if there is to be a fight against the Communists in Korea Van Fleet wants to lead it.

Van Fleet has made no bones about the fact that he wants a clear military victory over the Communists in Korea.

In Chicago, Cedric Belfrage, radio commentator, released the text of a personal letter Van Fleet wrote him in which the Eighth Army commanding general said:

"I am still hoping that we will obtain a military victory in Korea, and restore American prestige in the Orient and throughout the world."

NO OTHER SOLUTION

"There is no other solution. I am also of the opinion that this decision would eventually be reached by the United States regardless of which party is in power."

The letter was dated last Nov. 11. In it Van Fleet also said: "Nothing ever gets me down. My job has always been to overcome obstacles and win. Anyway, hunting and fishing is mighty good most any place."

This appeared to jibe with the Tokyo report that Van Fleet was ready to leave the Army, disheartened, if continued stalemate is to be maintained in Korea.

Sources close to Van Fleet said the general sat Eisenhower down in his headquarters in Seoul during

Tito Breaks With Vatican Over Stepinac

BELGRADE, Dec. 17.—Yugoslavians broke off diplomatic relations with the Vatican today in a note complaining against the recent appointment of Yugoslav Archbishop Aloysius Stepinac as a cardinal of the Roman Catholic Church.

Marshal Tito's Communist government accused the Holy See of meddling in Yugoslav affairs, trying to undermine the unity of the nation, and making its international position difficult.

Alex Belier, deputy foreign minister, called in the charge of affairs of the Papal Nunciature, Msgr. Silvio Oddi, and handed him the formal notice of the rupture.

It asked the Vatican to withdraw its diplomatic representatives from Belgrade as soon as possible. Yugoslavia has no diplomatic envoy to the Vatican.

The break followed by 24 hours a denunciation by Tito of the elevation of Stepinac to the cardinalate as an insult to Yugoslavia. Tito charged in a speech at Smederevska Palanka that Stepinac was merely a "political bishop."

Stepinac was tried and sentenced in 1946 to 16 years in prison for wartime collaboration with the Nazis. He was freed last December, but his ecclesiastical duties were limited.

Senate Helm Of GOP Seen Sure for Taft

By WILLIAM S. WHITE

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The election of Senator Taft of Ohio as Republican leader of the new Senate is now regarded as foregone even among some colleagues who would have preferred another to fill the post.

This outlook presupposes that Taft will make it indisputably plain that he wants the job. It does not appear that he need publicly to campaign for it.

Such resistance as there had been to Taft from among the original and ardent pro-Eisenhower Senate Republicans—and this resistance had never been total or implacable—plainly was fading fast today under the impulse of two far different circumstances.

One is the normal anxiety of the Republicans not to have anything approaching a public fight when they take over control of the 83d Congress January 3.

The other is a great deal more complicated, as it is privately explained by persons who ordinarily would not want Taft as the party leader and vehemently fought to nominate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's presidential nomination at the Chicago convention.

In this group, said a senator who is a leading member, there is resentment that Eisenhower, the president-elect, has not been "consulting" senators in filling his cabinet—an omission blamed on a "Dewey man," Herbert Brownell.

Fire Useless Aides, Raise Teachers, Gowen Asks

By M. L. ST. JOHN

Rep. Charlie Gowen of Glynn County Wednesday suggested firing up to 3,000 state employees added by the Talmadge administration to provide funds for giving teachers a 10 per cent cost-of-living wage increase.

This development came as House members showed sentiment toward raising teachers' salaries regardless of other state financial problems at the close of pre-session legislative conferences here.

Gowen quoted figures in the state auditor's office to show that the Talmadge administration has added 3,000 employees since it took office in 1948. Average salary of a state employee is $3,000 to $3,500, Gowen said.

"If we've got 3,000 useless employees, they could be eliminated and save more than the $8,000,000 annually needed to raise teachers' salaries," he said.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. commented that to provide this money by eliminating employees would mean the firing of approximately 2,200. However, he said that most of the additional employees were added in the Highway department, Milledgeville State Hospital, Health department, Department of Forestry, Education department and Forestry department, where the legislature has voted expanded services.

The audit shows 11,524 employees on state agency payrolls and 4,216 employees of the University System. This compares with 8,501 state agency and 4,109 University System employees on the payroll when Talmadge assumed office in 1948.

The current annual payroll of the University System is $1,000,000.

Dramatic Operation Parts Twins

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The 15-month-old Brodie Siamese twins were separated tonight in a dramatic, unparalleled 12½-hour operation that climaxed more than a year of medical preparation.

The twins had been joined extensively at the top of their heads. The separation was the first successful one of its kind in medical history.

The boys were given anesthetic at 7:50 a.m., CST, at the Illinois Neurosurgical Institute, part of the University of Illinois Medical Center on Chicago's West Side. They were separated at 6:26 p.m. They left the operating room, alive and in critical condition, at 8:30 p.m.

Additional surgery and patchwork work was required on each twin after the separation.

A spokesman at the hospital said, "The ultimate outcome of the operation is as yet unknown."

The tiny patients, Roger Lee and Rodney Dee Brodie, of Moline, Ill., were taken to the pediatrics ward after the operation.

Chinese Boast They'll Be in Seoul by Yule

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Thursday, Dec. 18.—(UP)—The Chinese Communists broadcast a propaganda warning last night that they would be in the South Korean capital of Seoul by Christmas.

The threat was contained in a broadcast beamed from enemy lines to American troops manning the central front near White Horse Mountain. It was the fourth successive day of stepped-up psychological warfare by the Reds.

The "program" opened with the playing of songs recorded by Bing Crosby, Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald. Then male voices, speaking successively in English, French and Korean, broadcast the slogan: "In Seoul for Christmas."

Global Fight For Peace Is Reviewed

By LEO EGAN

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—General Eisenhower conferred for two and a quarter hours today with General MacArthur on possible plans for ending the Korean War and the relationship of these plans to the worldwide struggle between Communist and free governments.

They were joined by John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate, in whose home they met.

DEC. 5 STATEMENT

The historic meeting was the direct result of MacArthur's statement delivered on Dec. 5, while the president-elect was in Korea, that he had a new "clear and definite" solution to the Korean War.

Emerging bareheaded from the Dulles home at 3:19 p. m., after the conference broke up, to face a massive battery of newspaper reporters and photographers, newsreel and television cameras, Eisenhower dictated the following statement to reporters:

"I just had a meeting with two old and very good friends, my old commander and the secretary of state-designate.

"We had a very enjoyable lunch and a very fine conversation on the general subject of peace, not only in Korea but throughout the world, with particular reference to the world situation in which, of course, such a Korean peace would have to be determined.

"I hope my old commander will have a word to say."

PLEASANT REUNION

General MacArthur, who had stood at one side with Dulles while Eisenhower was talking, then stepped forward and dictated the following statement:

"I had a very pleasant reunion with the president-elect. It was a resumption of an old friendship and comradeship of 35 years standing. The subject was peace in Korea and the world in general."

Neither of the generals would elaborate on this statement. After posing for pictures and exchanging farewells they got into separate automobiles and were driven off.

Ex-Red Says Stalin Ordered Infiltrations

Colleges, Charity Foundations
Key Targets, House Quiz Told

By ROBERT E. THOMPSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—(INS)—A former Red army colonel told House probes today that Russian Premier Stalin ordered infiltration of the U. S. government, big American charitable foundations and certain universities.

Igor Bogolepov, once a Soviet Foreign Office International Law expert said that while serving in Moscow he saw the names of Columbia, Yale and Stanford universities mentioned in secret reports as having been infiltrated by Communists or their sympathizers.

ALERT GIVEN

Earlier, New York importer Alfred Kohlberg testified that he twice warned Secretary of State-designate Dulles about Alger Hiss before Hiss was investigated on Communist charges.

Kohlberg and Bogolepov appeared before the House committee investigating tax-free foundations.

The ex-Russian official declared that infiltration of such foundations as well as educational institutions was part of Stalin's secret plan to "push communism through the brains of Western intellectuals rather than through the hands of agrarians."

He charged that after he broke with the Communists, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, which Hiss once headed, the Rockefeller and Guggenheim foundations, and Harvard, Yale and Columbia rejected his requests for financial aid to carry out operations.

Bogolepov said Stalin issued an order in the 1930s directing members of the Soviet embassy in Washington to use the big foundations as well as the American government to further Soviet aims.

Kohlberg, a member of the so-called "China lobby," said that on two occasions after Hiss became president of the Carnegie group he told Dulles, orally and in writing, that he suspected Hiss had Communist connections.

BOARD CHIEF

Dulles was chairman of the board of the Carnegie Endowment in 1947, when Hiss was named its president. Hiss, former State department official, later was convicted of perjury in denying that he gave U. S. secrets to a Communist spy ring. The conviction stemmed from a 1948 congressional investigation.

Kohlberg said Dulles was the first person to recommend Hiss for the Carnegie post. Kohlberg said his suspicions of Hiss, who is now serving a five-year perjury sentence, were based on Whittaker Chambers' charge that Hiss was a Communist. The importer said he wrote Dulles a letter about Hiss and later talked with him personally.

He quoted Dulles as saying: "Several people have said Hiss is a sort of fellow traveler, but they can offer no concrete proof."

Churchill Plans Winter Visit To Talk With Ike

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—High British sources reported tonight that Prime Minister Winston Churchill will go to the United States in February or March to discuss global problems of common interest with President Eisenhower.

Informants said Churchill, in his talks with the incoming President, expected to range the whole field of problems affecting the United States, Britain, the British Commonwealth and Western Europe.

Definite arrangements for the trip cannot be made until after the inauguration of Eisenhower on Jan. 20, informants reported. But Churchill definitely wants to go, and March is the more likely date, they added.

Superiority Complex Not Truman's Dish

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Mr. President Truman said today his high post has given him "no superiority complex."

The Association of Immigration and Nationality Lawyers awarded him its 1952 founder's medal for humane immigration policies.

Immigration Commissioner Argyle R. Mackey remarked: "You seem to be able to get along fine with everybody."

Mr. Truman laughed and replied: "Well, as far as I'm concerned, I have no superiority complex whatsoever."

Iran Oil Solution Fades As U.S.-British Talks End

PARIS, Dec. 17.—(AP)—An 11th-hour effort by the Truman administration to solve the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute appeared tonight to have collapsed.

Official sources said the latest British-American talks ended here without "any sort of solution in sight."

New suggestions were advanced last week by the United States for ending the deadlock arising from Iran's action in nationalizing the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company holdings.

These suggestions were said to have been an elaboration of ideas contained in the offer made to Iran last August jointly by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill. The purpose was to prevent Communists from seizing control of near-bankrupt Iran.

CONDITIONAL OFFER

The August proposals contained a conditional offer by the United States of a 10 million dollar grant to Iran. In the latest round of talks the United States was reported ready to advance as much as 100 million dollars in the form of a loan and grant—if Iran would cooperate with the British in settling the 20-month old controversy and restore the flow of oil to Western nations.

The exact issues on which the latest effort foundered were not disclosed, but British reaction has been cool from the start. Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden conferred here twice this week.

MAIN POINTS

Paul Nitze of the State Department and Sir Pierson Dixon of the Foreign Office tried, informants said, to elaborate two main points of the Truman-Churchill plan:

1. Ways of settling conflicting British and Iranian compensation claims which arose out of the Tehran government's decision to take over the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company (AIOC) properties.

2. Ways of restarting the Iranian oil industry and the marketing of its products.

The United States sought to approach both questions on an international basis, according to the informants—a basis which at some stage probably would have involved the co-operation of the Western world's main oil companies.

The British reportedly were allergic to any suggestion that AIOC should be compensated with money from the United States. That, one informant said, might have encouraged other Middle Eastern states where the West has oil interests to follow in Iran's footsteps.

Truman Holds Airpower Best Check on Aggression

Cites Doolittle for Airport Study
In Outlining Technical Progress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—America's airpower buildup must be pushed forward to keep the Communists from "plunging the world into war," President Truman said tonight.

Commenting briefly on "startling technical advances" made in military aviation, the President said that only by such development "can we build up the power which is necessary to keep aggression and conquest in check."

Truman's speech was prepared for the Wright Memorial Dinner of the Aero Club of Washington honoring Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle for his life-long services to aviation. He presented to Doolittle the Wright Memorial Trophy in recognition of his contributions as a civilian to aviation.

Truman spoke of the difficult decisions confronting Presidents on international air routes, and made what might have been a suggestion to President-elect Eisenhower to get ready to handle "hot potatoes." The President must approve actions of the Civil Aeronautics Board on certificates dealing with international air routes.

"One of the results of this system is that it gives the President a good many hot potatoes to handle," the President said. But, he added, "the President gets a lot of hot potatoes from every direction, and a man who can't handle them has no business in the job."

Truman said that from April 12, 1945, which is the day he took over as president upon the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt, to Sept. 30, 1952, the route mileage of United States overseas carriers increased from 75,000 to 240,000, and other operations figures have gone up in proportion.

But he said the most "startling technical advances" have been made in the military field.

"We are throwing our energies into military aviation because we want to prevent war," Truman said. "We are developing new techniques and new weapons with the hope that they will never have to be used."

"Our aim is peace. We must never forget that. But we cannot have peace by being weak, or by falling behind in the technical race."

Truman said Doolittle's fame rests upon many outstanding accomplishments, but he wanted to thank him particularly for the Doolittle report on the problem of the use and location of airports.

Gale-Lashed Liner U. S. Smashes Pier, Delays Trip

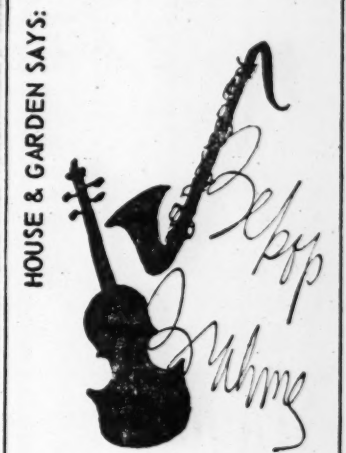

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Howling gales sweeping across Britain slammed the giant liner United States against a pier at Southampton today and delayed her departure for home.

The crack new 53,000-ton American luxury ship suffered a dented bridge wing. Seven tugs fought to get the vessel away from the pier, but finally had to give up the struggle against the ferocious winds.

In some places the gale blowing across Britain reached hurricane force, with gusts of more than 100 miles an hour. Small coastal vessels hurried for shelter. Ashore, the storm left a trail of roofless houses, broken fences and tangled road traffic.

Gusts of 130 miles an hour were recorded atop Snaefell Mountain on the Isle of Man. This, said the Air Ministry, was the windiest place in Britain.

The liner United States suffered only superficial damage in her tussle with the gale. This glistering luxury vessel holds both the Middle East Peace Said Far Away

By C. L. SULZBERGER

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Dec.
17—It is obvious to anyone visiting the turbulent Middle East these days that both the Arab states and Israel would benefit enormously by a settlement of the Palestine war, but unfortunately it is equally obvious that peace still is a long way off.

This correspondent has just concluded a tour taking him to both sides of the dispute and has come away with the following impressions:

1. Economically both Israel and its Moslem neighbors are in poor shape. The Arab blockade certainly has damaged the Israeli economy which depends so heavily on American aid. The transportation costs of necessities are immense.
But likewise, Jordan is suffering from a failure to utilize its normal port of Haifa. And Egypt, gravely wounded by the absence of world cotton markets, is in bad straits.

AGAINST EACH OTHER

2. Both sides are doing their utmost to obtain arms from abroad —not for regional defense but for protection against each other. The Israelis have submitted a list of requirements to the United States to be purchased under the mutual security eligibility which has been granted Tel Aviv. Britain has promised jet fighters to Syria, Iraq, Jordan and Egypt—but has not delivered them all. The expense of these weapons is an added economic burden.

3. The suspicion of each side for the other remains a powerful factor. The Israelis' original hopes that the government of Gen. Mohammed Naguib in Egypt would agree to peace have now dimmed considerably. The Arabs on the other hand are furious about the West German restitution agreement with Israel, and see in it a source of Zionist armed strength for the future.

4. The future of the refugees from Palestine remains a principle stumbling block. General Na-guib told this writer Israel never would be trusted by its neighbors until it accepted the ousted Arabs back within its borders. Premier David Ben Gurion said to me that such was utterly out of the question.

WORKING QUIETLY

5. While some diplomats still are quietly working for direct negotiations between Tel Aviv and Cairo, the prospects are fading.
Contacts had been made; but they were barren. It is now believed the only eventual peace prospect would come after a settlement of British-Egyptian questions and the adherence of Egypt to a Middle East defense organization. But this will take a considerable time.
The British are negotiating in apparent good faith but are "freezing the ball" in terms of timing, presumably to wait and see what happens in Egypt.

6. In the meantime, hoping to get a regional defense started in some form, the Allies are trying to create dual arrangements with both the Arabs and Israelis, placing the issue of the Palestine war temporarily on ice.

General Naguib appears to be a man of peaceful philosophy. When this correspondent visited him he drew a silver Torah from his desk
—a gift of the Egyptian Jewish community—and said he regarded all Egyptians as equal, regardless of creed or race. But on the subject of Israel and Zionists his attitude is bitter.

Derailed Diesels Delay 2 Trains

SAVANNAH, Dec. 17—Two diesel engines pulling a freight train of the Central of Georgia Railway were derailed at Herndon, 11 miles from Millen, this morning, causing a delay of passenger trains.

No one was injured, the Central reported, but the derailment delayed train No. 4 from Savannah to Atlanta, and the departure of the Nancy Hanks from Savannah.

Atlanta Welfare Revision Lauded

Promoting the public welfare on a community level has become a business. It has been so recognized by the compilers of the dictionary who define welfare work as organized community or corporate efforts for social betterment.

In the greater Atlanta area welfare activities administered and paid for through what we call the Community Chest have come to mean an investment of more than $1,500,000 annually. A multiplicity of agencies is involved. To get the greatest possible returns in "social betterment," a close co-ordination in planning and administration is necessary.

To achieve the maximum in co-ordination, a committee of Atlanta leaders has worked out a merger of the Greater Atlanta Community Chest and the Community Planning Council into an organization called Metropolitan Atlanta Community Services, Inc. The committee's plan was approved Wednesday by the Community Chest trustees.

The new setup will co-ordinate the activities of those who plan welfare work, those who make the budget, those who raise the money and those who spend it. It will eliminate duplications of effort and of authority under the former plan. It will provide a direct chain of responsibility from an executive director of Metropolitan Atlanta Community Services through associate directors for the planning and campaign divisions to the various subdivisions of each.

The reorganization is along a line which has proved successful in other cities. Ours will be a better community for its having been adopted here. The welfare dollar will go further.

Greater Atlanta owes a debt of gratitude to those civic-minded citizens who have given much time and thought to devising the revision.

Blows To Be Aimed At South's Industry

Labor Secretary Tobin has given interested parties until Dec. 26 to file briefs against his proposed intent to raise the minimum textile wage to $1 per hour before he leaves office on Jan. 20.

Textile operators in the South will file briefs and will take the decision to court if they lose, as they will. Final decision will be many months away.

But the interesting point is that the Republicans may very well support this move by the Massachusetts cabinet member to get himself and his party on record before leaving office.

New England industrialists feel that the movement of their textile mills South will be halted if the minimum wage is the same. The Republicans feel the same way. Secretary of Commerce-to-be Sinclair Weeks, New England industrialist, entertains that idea. So does the Democratic senator-elect from Massachusetts, John Kennedy.

Technically, the Secretary of Labor can impose this raise only on those mills with government contracts. But most of them have, or seek, such contracts. And a raise in the big ones must be reflected down the line. So, the raise is, in net effect, a general one.

This fight will be reflected in the new Congress.

The South may receive quite a few kicks in its industrial shins before the winter is done.

The Nation Loses A Great Educator

Dr. Bowman F. Ashe, first and only president of the University of Miami, is dead in that city, and there comes inevitably to mind the old axiom about the history of any great institution being that of the lengthening shadow of a man.

Certainly that is true of the University of Miami, one of the better and more progressive of the South's fully accredited institutions. It is the lengthening shadow of Bowman Ashe and, if it holds to his principles, as it will, the university will continue to reflect his guiding influence.

He was a fine man, and a civilized man. He had great administrative and organizational ability. He almost literally carried the university on his back in its early years. It was organized at the peak of the Florida boom in the 20's. He had come as its president. The boom broke. And Bowman Ashe inherited a few half-done buildings and worthless pledges for millions.

But the courage which had held him to the hard job of earning his education kept him on the job. He made a university out of the economic wreckage. How he did it no one really knew. He was often up against the impossible.

Yet he succeeded. During the recent war he, together with his great and good friend, Herve Allen, one of the nation's finest novelists, worked in Atlanta as heads of the War Manpower Board. To them came the job of filling a sudden demand for 50,000 workers in an unheard-of place in Tennessee—Oak Ridge. Allen, who served as a trustee of the university, died two years ago, also of a heart attack.

It has become trite to say that the world is poorer for a man's passing but it remains true when such a man as Bowman Ashe departs from us. It is much poorer in ability, in comradeship, in education, in laughter, and in culture—for he contributed to all of these.

Let Courts Decide About Lattimore

In view of the public controversy about the case, the indictment of Owen Lattimore for perjury in testimony before a Senate internal security subcommittee is a relief. It is only right that his guilt or innocence be determined by a jury. He will not, of course, be tried for charges that he is a Communist but only on those that he lied about his association and help to the Communist cause in the Far East.

The case is not clear-cut as was that of Alger Hiss, who has been clearly branded a traitor and spy. Lattimore, however, belongs to that group—and there were many others like him—who saw no future for China under Chiang Kai-shek and the corrupt officials around him. He said so as did these many others who were acquainted with the situation.

Laying aside any considerations of his guilt or innocence or questions of his loyalty to this country, the indictments focus attention upon the plight of the State department and the job that is ahead for John Foster Dulles. This instrument of American policy is reported near collapse. The charges against its personnel for past expressions of opinion have all but destroyed an important function of the foreign service—that of impartial reporting of conditions in any country. Afraid of saying the "wrong" thing, they report nothing.

This presents a grave danger to this nation and its future. It borders upon thought control and suppression of individual freedoms. It hints of the dread device of totalitarianism—political imprisonment for opinions contrary to those laid down by government dictates.

Owen Lattimore may be guilty. Certainly there is evidence that he may have committed perjury. His case does, however, call attention to the growing danger of collapse of our state department functions in that no able man wants to run the risk of being branded Communist for expressing an honest opinion.

The court is the proper place for the determination of Owen Lattimore's guilt or innocence. For the sake of preserving fundamental freedoms, it is time to sift out the truth in the blanket charges that have been made, to detect the guilty and to clear the innocent. Let's put an end to the atmosphere of suspicion lest we destroy the liberties we strive to save.

The Safest Policy Is Lock 'Em and Leave 'Em

Arrested in Atlanta this week for taking Christmas gifts from parked cars, two men have confessed to stealing thousands of dollars' worth of packages thus far in December.

The story should be sufficient reminder to motorists that they should lock their cars when they leave them at the curb and not wait until Junior's hobbyhorse has been stolen. The rule holds for the year, not merely for the Christmas shopping season.

Georgia GOP Makes A Correction

Couple of political notes left over from last month.

Up in Illinois, a fellow named Adlai got elected president.

This Adlai is Adlai H. Rust, also of Bloomington. He got elected president of the American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders Association at its annual meeting in Chicago. No politics involved.

And in Atlanta, the Georgia Republican committee is proud of the large number of votes General Eisenhower got in this state. But the committee doesn't want to claim anything that isn't due.

How Will Ike Handle the Press?

WASHINGTON—Newspapermen here are beginning to speculate upon what sort of arrangements will be made by President-elect Eisenhower for handling news that develops about him and the White House.

This is of interest not only to all of our newspapers, but also to the public, as well as to the new President himself. Newspapers have the very responsible function of informing our people about their government in which, of course, the President is the central figure. As that, he can have much influence on general news policy in all areas of government. For the past 20 years the press has had fairly easy access to news about the White House, though through regularly scheduled news conferences and through the press secretary and other White House aides.

A feeling that this may not necessarily be so with the new administration, though it may be entirely unwarranted, has spread among newspapermen here because of the nature of the incoming President's previous career and because of experiences during the campaign.

One question raised is whether General Eisenhower will continue the regular open press conferences at which reporters may ask any question they please in an easy and informal exchange about government affairs and policy. These have come to be taken for granted also, though they date back only to Franklin D. Roosevelt's entry into the White House on the basis on which they are now conducted.

This sort of free and open interchange is valuable beyond what news actually is revealed. Much can be learned from the attitude of the President at such times and over a period of weeks and months, which adds to the understanding which reporters can convey to the public of the man who governs.

Up to the time of President Roosevelt, the free and open press conference had been in a long eclipse. President Harding instituted it after the virtual isolation of the White House during the First World War and President Woodrow Wilson's long illness. But it was abandoned after a few months by President Harding upon complaint of then Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes because of a slip President Harding made one day at a press conference about a delicate matter of foreign policy.

Thereafter, reporters were required to hand in written questions 15 minutes in advance of the press conference to give the President time to look them over. He answered such as he chose, which often was very few, and reporters were not permitted to interrogate him further for additional information or elaboration on those he chose to answer. That one-way-street system prevailed until Franklin D. Roosevelt became President.

Translating Memos Of Korean Trip

NEW YORK—Translations from a crowded notebook: "SS heel-and-toe." That meant that by 1956 the Secret Service men detailed to guard Dwight Eisenhower will be apt enough at walking long distances quickly to enter the Olympics heel-and-toe event. Bound to happen, for Ike is an incurable golf addict—and Jim Rowley's boys must follow him wherever he goes. The general played the brisk little Kaneohe course on Oahu up until less than an hour before he left to fly to California on his way home from Korea. The SS men had to walk with him, and he kept them going at what amounted to a lope, for he's not one to waste much time on a course. They'll be some of the outstanding physical specimens in the country by the time Ike gets through with them.

"Dul, almost missed." This hieroglyphic concerned John Foster Dulles. It was nip and tuck with him whether he would accept the President-elect's invitation to fly to Wake and meet the USS Helena.

Dulles is a devout churchman and had agreed to attend a church convention in Denver to be held at the same time as the Wake gathering. He debated with himself for a long time before deciding that his role as new Secretary of State came first. Made a recording of his speech and sent it to the convention.

"Durkin." That must indicate a remark made one day by Herbert Brownell, on the Helena. The ship paper was filled with the angry words of Senator Taft about the Durkin appointment. We asked Herb why Eisenhower had chosen a man in favor of the repeal of Taft's labor law.

"He came very well recommended by people we trust and who have known him for a long time," Brownell said. "Eisenhower has never met him, as far as I know. But he made the final selection, and we all feel he'll work out fine."

"Press Club, Seoul." It's a rough place if the correspondent stands more than five feet five or six. It used to be a Korean apartment house, and the doorways were made for natives. The sound of heads colliding with tops of doorways echoes hollowly through the place, night and day.

It must be a relief to some of the war correspondents to get up closer to the front, so they eat something substantial. In self-defense against the club's kitchen, many correspondents have become cooks. No office in the building (correspondents sleep in their offices on cots) is without its electric stove. I can recommend the succulent Italian dishes prepared by Bob Schakne of INS. He may not be a Gene Leone, but he'll do until Gene opens a spot there.

Rewards of Teaching Other Than Pay Belies the 'Thankless Job' Charge

Rome—This is not to express an opinion, either pro or con, on the increase of pay for teachers. But I do wish to say as one who taught when 60 pupils to a room was not unusual and the pay was considerably less, even in proportion to the cost of living, it always distresses me to hear anyone call teaching a "thankless job" or an "unprofitable work."

Of course, the two recent spokesmen in Pulse of the Public so dubbing that profession never were teachers themselves.

Can you imagine a greater thrill than having an ex-pupil returning with his wife and two small children, a girl and boy of teen age, and saying, "We have made this trip from Columbus, Ohio, that you might meet my wife and children. For you know that I was poor and only went through the fourth grade and you were my teacher in both the second and fourth grades, so all I knew I learned mostly from you."

Such experiences always brings me to my knees in thanksgiving for the privilege of teaching.

ADDIE S. MITCHELL.

'Future Teachers' Reaffirm Faith in the Profession

Collegeboro—In spite of recent criticism directed toward the teaching profession by some of the letters to the Pulse of the Public, we still plan to teach. At this point we are actively engaged in working toward that objective by attending Georgia Teachers College.

We are proud to belong to the Future Teachers of America and we have enough faith in our chosen profession and our own state to continue to make big plans for giving all children the best we have.

Auto Inspection Suggested As Aid to Traffic Safety

Atlanta—Judging from recent editorials and front-page stories about deaths resulting from auto crashes, the only cure is revocation of drivers' licenses.

Every few days a whole page of these revoked licenses appears in The Atlanta Constitution. Set in 5½-point type, this adds up to an imposing array of names and if continued at the present rate the cure should soon be complete, because there will not be

Ike's Failure to Consult Senators On Cabinet Choices Brings Protests

WASHINGTON — President-elect Eisenhower has irked a number of Republican senators by the way he has handled most of his key appointments to date. Several of them have joined in sending quiet but vigorous protests to the Eisenhower headquarters in New York.

What offends the senators is the failure to consult them when men from their states are named to important posts in the government under the incoming new administration. In the past, it has been customary for a President or a President-elect to advise with the senators, where they are members of his own party, when a major appointment was to be made from their states. Custom also dictates that the chairman of a Senate committee having jurisdiction over a nomination be consulted before the appointment is made.

For reasons of his own, General Eisenhower has not seen fit to adhere to the past custom. In selecting his cabinet and making the other important appointments that have been announced, he does not seem to have consulted very much with the Republican senators who had a right to be personally or officially interested in the persons named.

At least, that is known to have been true in a number of cases. Every President has the right, of course, to name his own cabinet, but it is usually a courtesy extended to a senator of his own party to inform him in advance of an appointment to be made from his home state. The reason for this is that it is embarrassing any more drivers in Georgia—at least not legally.

With all this hullabaloo about safety, no patrolman, mayor, councilman or legislator has ever suggested a law making it compulsory for every owner to have his car checked mechanically every six months, a sticker on the windshield to prove it.

Such a law would eliminate cars with one light and no brakes and get some of these wrecks off the road that are just as great a hazard as drunks behind the wheel.

WALTER J. SHAFFER.

'Democrats Would Appreciate Quiet Exit by Mr. Truman'

Bethlehem—Knowing that by the will of the majority of the people of the United States he will be out of the office of President on Jan. 20, one would think that Mr. Truman would have the good manners and wit to stop his name calling.

Could I see Mr. Truman, I would say, "We good Democrats would appreciate it very much if you would exit quietly and in good taste." MRS. GRACE EDWARDS.

'Worried Citizen' Advised To Read Word of God

Atlanta—In answer to a letter signed "Worried Citizen," I would like to quote God's Word as to the brotherhood of man. Now I am well aware that modern theology teaches this terrible error, but it is foreign indeed to the Word of God.

John 1:12 reads, "But as many as received him (Jesus) to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." Each time that our Lord Jesus used the word "brethren," it was to believers only; those who were receivers of this glorious gift of God.

New read John 8:44. Jesus, speaking to the Pharisees, a very religious group, is saying, "Ye are of your father the devil and the lusts of your father ye will do." See Matthew 13:38 and Act 13:10.

Isn't this clear? Only by God's grace, when we accept the sacrifice that He gave for us, are we born into the family of God. We must be born again. Read the Word of God. There's an answer there for all our problems, and only by knowing what the Word says can we not be "carried about with every wind of doctrine" (Eph. 4:14).

MRS. W. L. CLARKE.

We Find Peace Within Ourselves

How can we make peace?

The place to begin is within ourselves. Ralph W. Sockman in his book, "The Higher Happiness," which is the most helpful book on The Beatitudes I know, lifts up the words of Christ, "And if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand." (Mark 3:25.) Then he points out three ways by which a life is divided: between its inner self and its outer selves; between its forward drive and its backward pull; between its higher and lower natures. The Pharisees became chiefly concerned with keeping up a front. All of their actions were "to be seen of men." They were worried about what the neighbors would think. Seeking to appear to be something outside which they were not inside, they became hypocrites. A hypocrite is a person without peace. Unless our outward appearances and our inward character are in harmony with each other, we have no peace.

Physically we are made to go forward. To walk backward is awkward. A little girl was trying to button her dress in the back. Finally she gave up and went to her mother for help, saying, "I can't do it because I am in front of myself." But mentally we are just the opposite. We can think better backward than forward. We know what happened yesterday; we can only guess about tomorrow. Thus it is easier to live in the past and reluctantly we turn it loose.

We load ourselves down with the futile regrets and mistakes of yesterday, thus the business of living becomes a hard pull. Instead of repentance, we know only the meaning of remorse. Remorse is futile worry and self-inflicted agony of some yesterday. Repentance is a redemptive experience which leads to forgiveness. It buries the past under the blessed hope of tomorrow.

Finally, we make peace by the decisions of our souls. Elijah stood before the people on Mount Carmel and pleaded, "How long halt ye between two opinions? If the Lord be God, follow him; but if Baal, then follow him." He was pleading for a decision. The Bible says, "And the people answered him not a word." (1 Kings 18:21.)

Oh, the tragedy of one who cannot make a decision. There is marvelous inner peace which comes to one who completely decides for God. I suppose there is a peace, certainly a cessation of inner strife, which comes to one who decides against God. But to go through life undecided is to live in misery.

The oldest story of man tells how he sinned and then hid himself from God. Hiding from God is the most miserable experience the human soul can experience. Peace with God is the most blessed experience. One of the greatest thinkers of all time was Copernicus. He revolutionized the thinking of mankind in regard to the universe. The epitaph on his grave at Frauenberg is this: "I do not seek a kindness equal to that given to Paul; nor do I ask the grace granted to Peter; but that forgiveness which thou didst give to the robber—that I earnestly pray." That is the way to begin making peace.

The angel said, "Glory to God," before it said, "Peace on Earth."

Racing Turtles Are Like Molasses

Some more I have learned about racing turtles. Bob Elliott, the Milledale merchant and turtle stable owner, told me when he was my official host at the Conyers Lions entertained their ladies at a Christmas party. Among 225 species of turtles, only a few hands are any good on the track. The best are the Diamond Back and the Indian Painted, the former native to Wisconsin and the latter to Louisiana. Bob had received a shipment of 50 from the Creole country on Monday, coldest day of the season. But temperature means nothing to a coldblooded turtle. Racing turtles are like molasses. They run faster in summer than in winter. Average time for a winter track, 30 feet, is a minute and 10 seconds. On a hot day the winners finish the course in 45 or 50 seconds. Bob Elliott pays from 30 cents to a dollar each for his shellbacks. He wants to add to his stable some of the Suwannee species from the Okefenokee, but is stymied. Although the swamp teems with turtles, the game management people won't shell out. They offered to send eggs, but eggs won't do. There would be 10 years between hatch and match and Bob Elliott can't wait that long, not even on a turtle.

American Bar Association, which is making a study of conditions here. Arnold said the new scale should be ready to put into effect by Jan. 1 or soon thereafter.

Arnold's plans for increased penalties are aimed chiefly at two specific groups: speeders who, he says, are responsible for at least 70 per cent of the traffic deaths in Atlanta, and repeat violators.

Speeding fines will be increased by approximately one-third, the judge said, and offenders no longer will be permitted to pay off fines at the traffic violations bureau after the second offense.

A court book of rules calls for a minimum 15 days' suspension of the driver's license in the following instances: the first conviction of speeding 60 miles per hour or more; the second conviction within 12 months of speeding 40 to 60; two accidents in which the driver is adjudged guilty within 12 months; the third red light or other moving hazardous violation within 12 months; failure to report an accident and violating pedestrian rights and duties.

Persons convicted of driving while the license is in suspension or revocation will draw a minimum of 30 days in the city prison farm, Arnold said.

To make the program more effective, Arnold is recommending six changes in city traffic ordinances.

Half-a-Day Operation Parts Twins

short lives, they were placed in separate beds.

Their condition was listed as "critical," a state regarded as natural in view of the protracted surgery.

PARENTS WATCH

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brodie, watched tensely as the babies emerged from the operating room and were rolled past them to the pediatric ward.

"It sure looks good to see them apart," said Brodie, a farmer and meat cutter, who with Mrs. Brodie had waited in the hospital throughout the long operation.

The Brodies are parents of four other children, all normal. Mrs. Brodie spent much of the day in the pediatric ward, taking care of the youngest of their children, Barbara Ann, 8 weeks old.

MEDICAL TEAM

The operation was carried out by a medical team of at least 15. Included were neurosurgeons, plastic surgeons, anesthesiologists, pediatricians and nurses. Laboratory technicians also stood by.

Doctors said the odds were against the twins' survival from the start but that the boys were "unbelievably hearty."

Stanley Olson, dean of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, said the twins still had a "long way to go" before their survival is assured.

Cost of today's surgery and eight previous preparatory operations was borne by the university without charge to the parents.

NO VITAL ORGANS

In comparison, the successful separation of twin girls born Sunday in Mt. Sinai Hospital in Cleveland was relatively simple. The girls were joined at a point where the chest and abdomen meet by a thin band of flesh, small vessels and cartilage. No vital organs were involved.

The Brodie twins appeared to have their heads joined wholly to each other at the top. But tests showed the babies had separate brains and separate brain coverings, at least in part.

The babies had an easy delivery at birth Sept. 16, 1951, in St. Anthony's Hospital in Rock Island, Ill., although their legs pointed in opposite directions.

WEIGHT AT BIRTH

Dr. Samuel P. Durr of Rock Island, the attending physician, said at birth the boys' weight totaled 11 pounds 12 ounces. One was 18 inches in length and the other 12 1/2 inches.

The ordinance requiring a report on all accidents in which the property damage amounts to $25 or more would be changed to $50 as stipulated in the state law. Arnold said this would eliminate confusion.

Trains would be required to slow to 10 miles per hour for crossings where there is no electric warning signal and to 25 miles per hour at crossings where there is such a signal.

Autos entering intersections would be restricted to 15 miles per hour, since most accidents involve intersection crashes. Those approaching dead-end intersections would be required to come to a full stop and the driver would assume full responsibility when attempting a turn.

Arnold believes a violation should be counted against the person who opens a door on the street side of a parked auto regardless of whether the person is actually entering or leaving the machine. He contends the driver approaching a stop sign at an intersection should be required to come to a full stop and remain stopped until he can proceed in safety.

After 63 tragic auto deaths, untold injuries, property loss and economic loss in 1952, this is the program evolved for 1953. It boils down to adequate enforcement and adequate punishment, which, if carried out, is held by safety men to be the only real answer to traffic problems.

Sawyer Urges U.S. To Halt All Gifts To Europe Nations Except Military

tary material outside the United States reached $620,800,000 through last June 30 but so far this fiscal year only one contract has been signed, for $90,000,000 for British-built Centurion tanks.

Two representatives of private industry accompanied Sawyer and four other federal officials on a month's tour of 10 Western European countries preparatory to drafting the report. They were Charles R. Hook, chairman of Armco Steel Corp., and Langbourne M. Williams Jr., president of Freeport Sulphur Co.

Government officials who made the tour and signed the report included Defense Mobilizer Henry H. Fowler; Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrew N. Overby; Assistant Secretary of Commerce J. Thomas Schneider, and the vice-chairman of the Export-Import Bank, Hawthorne Arey.

Although the report does not reflect the foreign economic policy of the Truman administration, let alone that of President-elect Eisenhower, it represents the first attempt to implement the suggestion of R. A. Butler, Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer, that Europe must seek solvency through "trade, not aid."

NO PROPOSAL

The report contained no specific proposal for filling the gap left by cutting off economic aid in the form of "defense support" grants. The obvious inference to be drawn, however, was that after providing direct military aid and larger orders for weapons and equipment to be made and used in Europe, the Allies should be able to put their own house in order.

This process would be facilitated, the authors suggested, by a more liberal trade policy on the part of the United States, including further lowering of tariff schedules and simplification of customs procedures.

CAN BE MADE

"It would appear," said the report, "that the adjustments required to absorb orderly termination of economic aid can be made. Additional aid borrowings, other than military aid, can well come from private investment and the already established and operating lending agencies—the International Bank, International Monetary Fund, and the Export-Import Bank.

None of these agencies is equipped, however, to make funds available to support the rearmament effort of America's allies. Moreover, Congress has appropriated "defense support" funds on the ground that the resulting contribution toward the continental defense build-up was at a ratio of three dollars of production to one dollar of grant aid.

Several admittedly "controversial" aspects of foreign economic policy were discussed in the report with a dexterity usually encountered only on the floor of the Senate. It complained that "some people are so engrossed with trying to save the rest of the free world that they take only a casual persons wanted on the warrants. When not directly engaged in investigating accidents, they look for the delinquent persons."

During September, Jenkins said, 282 warrants were issued by Traffic Court judges for persons who failed to appear. He added 100 warrants have been served.

"I am not going to be drawn into an argument," Jenkins declared. "A set program of increased enforcement was agreed upon by the police committee last week and we are going to carry that program out in full. We are not going to be restricted to any single phase of the problems. And we are not going to spend our time wrangling with anyone."

look at the problems at home."

It was suggested, for instance, that "there are too many people doing too many things" on the staffs of federal agencies in Europe. There were four Americans with rank of ambassador to Paris and French officials were beset by different persons claiming authority to act for the United States.

It was alleged in the report and vehemently denied elsewhere that the Mutual Security Agency still maintains missions in countries no longer receiving aid from the United States.

The same agency was accused of acquiescing or even urging the Italian government to make "certain social expenditures" but for which its budget might now be in balance. The purpose of the so-called expenditure was not indicated.

The report also was critical of efforts in the United States, official and otherwise, to induce businessmen and others to invest their capital in foreign countries. In summary fashion it questioned the validity of all pending surveys and studies of the problem, saying the real answer to the problem was in the countries where the investments might be made.

While suggesting that Western Europe must increase its productivity, abolish cartels and other restrictive practices and encourage competitive enterprise, the report called for repeal of the so-called Benton-Moody amendment earmarking $100,000,000 of Mutual Security funds for programs to promote these purposes.

Taft Regarded Certain Of Leading Senate GOPs

who is the attorney general-designate.

Taft, for his part, long since has publicly indicated displeasure not only at the fact that no one recommended by him was chosen for the cabinet but that he was not consulted in two critical appointments.

These were Eisenhower's selection of George Humphrey of Ohio—Taft's home state—to be secretary of the treasury, and of Martin Durkin, a Democrat, to be secretary of labor.

The situation now has reached the point where basically anti-Taft Republican senators feel compelled to make common cause with the Taft faction to uphold some of the most jealous of Senate prerogatives, those dealing with patronage.

There is, moreover, the fact that even the anti-Taftites take the view, "Something must be done for Bob."

In short, otherwise divergent Senate forces are gathering to assert the Senate's primacy over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, whose organization acted powerfully and decisively in Eisenhower's support at the Chicago convention.

Taft himself has never done more than state his "availability" for the leadership post, which at present is held by Senator Bridges of New Hampshire. The view of Taft associates may be stated as follows:

2 Portuguese Officers Sentenced for Plotting

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Two Portuguese Army officers were sentenced to prison by a military court today for plotting against the interests of the state. The alleged ringleader, Capt. Henrique Galvao, received a 3 1/2-year term. Lt. Col. Gonzaga Tadeu was sentenced to two years in prison.

Six others accused of complicity were acquitted.

can leader of the Senate, no matter who held the title. Finally, it is said among these men, Taft wants the shadow of the title as well as the substance of power already held, because he believes it necessary so that the Republicans in the Senate will not be speaking with more than one voice to and for the White House under Eisenhower.

Senator Bridges, on the other hand, clearly is still in a state of indecision as to whether to press for the leadership. To fill it he would have to forego the post of president pro tem of the Senate, that is, its presiding officer in the absence of the Vice President. He would, however, by past practice also have to give up the chairmanship of the Senate Appropriations Committee, a place of great power.

Thrasher Lists State Expenses

By M. L. ST. JOHN

What are they doing with the money? Before sales tax, back in 1950, the state's budget was $125,000,000. Today the state government is taking in $228,000,000. That's an increase of $103,000,000. What's going with this money?

Knowing that the legislators were interested in this question as they met in pre-session conferences here this week to consider finances, State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. gave the answer. Most of it is going to the Education Department. Next highest amount is going to the Highway Department.

St. John

Of the $103,000,000 added money raised, the common schools are getting an increase of $43,000,000. The University System is getting an increase of $6,100,000. The Teacher Retirement System is receiving an increase of $1,800,000. Thus, education of all branches is getting $50,900,000 more today than it did before the sales tax was levied.

The Highway Department is getting an increase of $22,100,000. In addition, the Legislature is sending an increase of $4,500,000 directly to the counties for road-building purposes. For roads, the state government is putting up $26,600,000 more now than it did in 1950.

The welfare program is receiving $12,600,000 more. Of this, $8,100,000 additional funds are for benefit payments and $4,500,000 in new money is going to welfare institutions.

BATTEY HOSPITAL

The Health Department is getting $4,300,000 more for its total program, including Battley Tuberculosis Hospital.

All other state agencies combined—Agriculture, Forestry, State Patrol, Prison Department, Revenue Department, the courts, executive, and legislative organizations—receive $9,100,000 more now than they did in 1950.

The state appropriations for each function of government today include: Common schools, $93,700,000; University System, $12,400,000; Teacher Retirement, $4,800,000; Highway Department, $18,100,000; grants to counties for roads, $9,300,000; Health Department, $12,600,000; Welfare Department, $17,600,000 for benefits and $11,200,000 for institutions; all other agencies, $21,600,000.

COPIED FOR STUDY

House members and senators copied down these figures as the auditor called them out. They took the figures home with them to mull over during the Christmas holidays. They will try to figure out ways and means of answering requests for higher teacher salaries, more state troopers, and more money to care for mental patients.

Governor Talmadge painted a gloomy picture of finances for the next two years — predicting it would take the present cash surplus of $21,000,000 to operate on the current level, without raising salaries or expanding services. Rep. Bill Freeman of Monroe County was more optimistic—he believes the sales tax will help raise the income higher than the present $228,000,000.

Legislators will have to consider these predictions, and add their own ideas on the financial outlook before they come into regular session in January.

A fight already is brewing over the school appropriations requests. All agencies of government combined are asking $38,000,000 more than the $220,000,000 which Talmadge predicts the state will have. One major department is unworried — as the state battles loom—the Highway Department's appropriation is guaranteed. A new constitutional amendment earmarks gas taxes and motor vehicle license fees for this department.

Furman BISHER

Sports Editor, The Constitution

Sinister Schwartzwalder

ONE-TWO-THREE, SHIFT—Ben Schwartzwalder, who teaches football at Syracuse, is a man of imagination. While around him other coaches resorted to the old-timey Notre Dame shift as a form of trickery, he invented his own. He even named it, called it the "Syracuse Shift."

The intent is hardly disguised. It seems to have been conceived simply for the purpose of disturbing the composure of opposing linemen. It calls for the quarterback to whirl away from the center and face his own backfield, without the ball. But there is a certain element of honesty in Coach S.'s (Schwartzwalder, incidentally, is the longest name of a head coach in America). Just the other day he warned Alabama, his intended Orange Bowl victim, of his sinister plot.

He will use the "Syracuse Shift" against Alabama, if he sees fit, he said. "If any team is drawn offside, it is its own fault. The play is designed to test the reactions of our opponents and to keep them honest." We have found that certain linemen take sight on our quarterback, so if our quarterback makes an unusual though legal move, they are caught cold.

Alabama's had its warning. Since Red Drew sticks to the Notre Dame type of deceit, they should have a fetching day of false starts and five-yard fines in Miami on New Year's Day. Syracuse has improved on post-Civil War relations, however. No carpet-bagger ever warned his prey.

WANTED: A SKI EDITOR—Couple of weeks ago, as I lolled lazily on Greenback Row in Miami, I reported playfully that we'd been getting a lot of mail back in the office addressed to "The Constitution Ski Editor." I also playfully reported that we needed a ski editor (quote) like Adlai needed a ski editor (unquote).

Bisher

Harry (unquote), with apologies to Adlai, needed a ski editor (quote).

Well, by George, we need one. The office has been thrown into consternation by a request from one H. G. Maxwell of Vinings, a transplanted Eskimo who can't understand how we've lived this long without snow. He wants to know where to go to ski, within driving distance. The ski editorship is now vacant and the new man has an assignment waiting for him: Go find snow for H. G.

The Prodigy System Burns Out

RICKEY'S ROCKS—Rex Barney, the lost pitching soul, has been left cast away on the desert island of St. Paul, in the American Association. Such has been the course of so many of Brooklyn's baseball meteors that burned brightly and then burned out that I wonder if one of Branch Rickey's baseball theories isn't about collapsed.

About the end of the war, even before he introduced chlorophyll in Brooklyn, Rickey came up with a string of prodigies, peach-fuzzed chaps who were only recently weaned away from lemon soda and candy apples. Barney was among them, and Hal Gregg, Vic Lombardi, Gil Hodges, Leroy Jarvis, Gene Mauch, Erv Palica, Gene Hermanski and Eddie Miksis. So were some people whose names you wouldn't recognize, like Joe Tepsic, Claude Crocker, Charlie Osgood, Frank Wurin and such unknown soldiers. You will recognize Mauch and Jarvis as Atlanta Cracker property, manager and catcher. Mauch has been a little more fortunate than others.

Barney, Gregg and Lombardi each had a good season or two and then fizzled out in Brooklyn. Mauch and Jarvis never quite rated full-time memberships. Palica had his trials with Chuck Dressen, then lost his effectiveness and went off to war. Hermanski and Miksis were traded away to the Cubs, and even in that low society setting they have been near-misses.

It doesn't sell any stock for Rickey's theory of putting the pressure to them while they're young and tender. It isn't sound and it's incongruous with the character of this old baseball mossback. He's ruined far more than he's made, for prodigies were not created to be pros until they've grown up.

Managers Easier To Replace Than Parks

DIXIESTEEL AND DIXIE—This is to a group of baseball fans at Atlantic Steel Co.: When a sports writer composes a column that is so grossly misinterpreted as you have misinterpreted mine on the Dixie Walker story, an answer to an unsigned letter seems out of order. Yours is the only letter of many that saw such intent in the column, and so I think you'll see that you have misconstrued the meaning of it. It is my aim at all times to consider all facts, not to discoler them.

Yes, Earl Mann sells beer at Ponce de Leon Park. So do some of the finest restaurants in the city. On Sunday, when beer sales are prohibited, the park is littered with empty whiskey bottles brought there by the fans. Mann cannot control public drunkenness, but toward that aim police are there at all times to keep the crowds in hand.

You protest that Mann called police to raid the "gaming" section of the bleachers. Gambling is prohibited in all Organized Baseball parks. You would protest the legal sale of beer, but condone illegal gambling practices which Mann has tried to curb.

I don't find the box seats extremely comfortable, and the park has other faults, but it was built several years ago and it isn't as easy to replace as a manager.

I have made it clear before, that I regretted Walker's departure. But the Crackers are Mann's charge. It's his right as well as his responsibility to change managers as he sees fit, for the club's economy is involved. I am exceedingly grateful there is no managers' union that can say who a baseball club can hire, how long he shall work or what salary he shall draw. I happen to believe in Earl Mann as a baseball operator, and my job shall go on whether the Crackers win, lose or collapse.

MATTISON PROVIDES SIX-STATE 'SWEEP'

North Carolina's Best Picks Tech

Georgia Tech added another "state champion" to its glittering list of football grant-in-aid signees Wednesday in Dickie Mattison, 200-pound Charlotte, N. C., fullback.

Mattison, 6-2 and 175, scored 122 points, gained more than 1,000 yards rushing, sparkled as a pass-receiver and led voting for the all-state team.

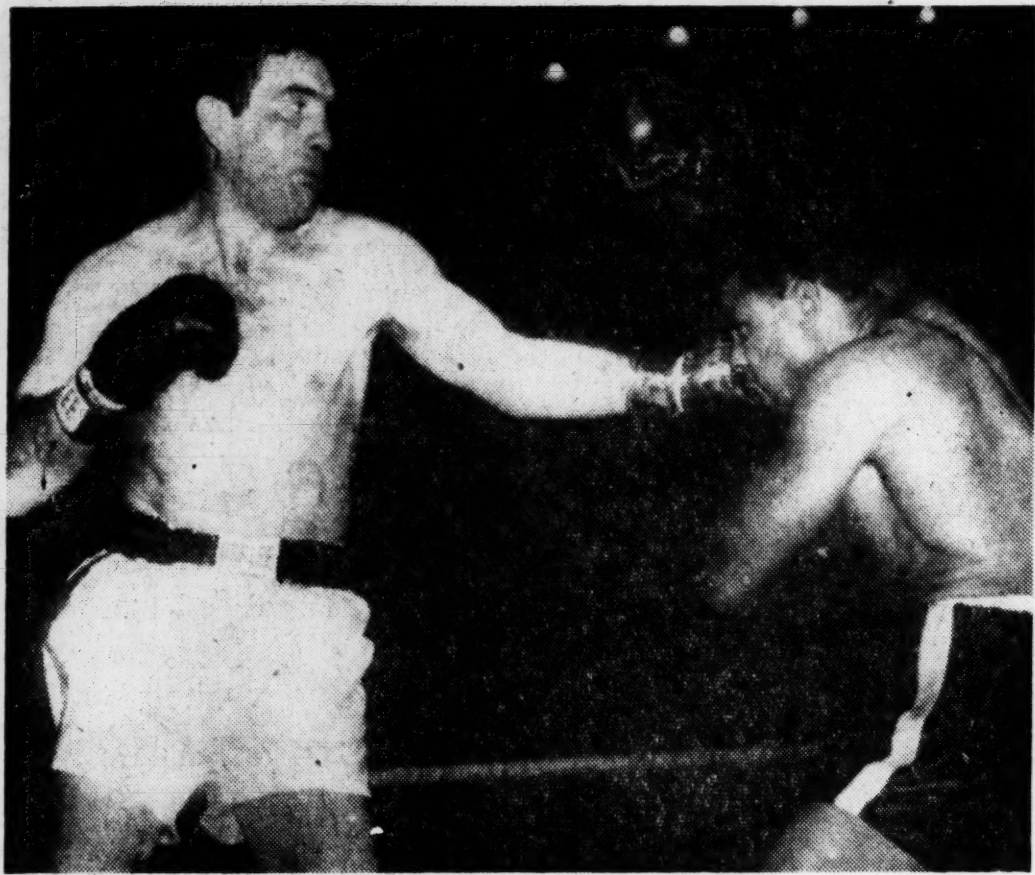

He was North Carolina's most sought-after prepster, so Tech now has landed the most highly regarded prospect in each of six Southern states.

Out of Georgia, the Jackets signed Richmond Academy quarterback Johnny Menger. From Tennessee, they acquired Isaac Litton High's George Volkert, considered the best high school tailback in Nashville in 10 years. Alabama chipped in with Frank Christie, Bessemer High guard.

Monroe, La. guard Leland Sims, that state's best, also picked Tech. Miami tackle Carl Vereen, tops in Florida, will follow brother Orville, a regular Jacket guard, to Atlanta.

Mattison brought Tech signees to 40.

The Jackets earlier announced acquisition of two Rossville standouts, quarterback Toppy Vann and tackle Roy Steiner, and Harding High (Charlotte, N. C.) tackle Roy Ford. . . . The University of Georgia pushed its sign-up list to 28 by getting guards James Fowler and James McGowan of Geneva, Ala. . . . Latest to accept Vanderbilt grants were Pat Swan, 6-2, Fort Valley end and basketball star; 285-pound guard Brothers Claxton of Dublin and Rome's Mitch-

Council Cancels Move To Stop Salary for Arkansas A.D.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 17.—(P)—The Arkansas legislative council Wednesday backed up on a move by which it had sought to abolish the position of athletic director at the University of Arkansas, now held by John Barnhill.

On motion of Rep. Paul Van Dalsem of Perry County, who had sponsored the original action, the council withdrew a recommendation it had made last Monday that no money be paid to an athletic director at the university.

Van Dalsem moved for reversal of his motion to abolish the job in the face of a threat by other council members to do so if he refused. The legislator's original motion was in the form of a rider on the university's proposed biennial appropriation bill.

Although he told the council he was "going to give the university a chance to save its face," Van Dalsem later said that "they (those who opposed the rider) had me beaten."

The representative's motion to rescind the Monday action and take up consideration of the university's budget Thursday was adopted without dissent.

Van Dalsem told the council in a speech criticizing university authorities he had heard that the university faculty committee on athletics yesterday had "refused" to hire Paul (Bear) Bryant of the University of Kentucky as head football coach. Bryant has been the leading candidate, at least in popular acclaim, to succeed the resigned Otis Douglas.

Rep. Clifton Wade of Washington County declared that "it

SHOWDOWN FOR TRIBE'S RIFT TODAY

CLEVELAND, Dec. 17. (INS)—Cleveland's front-office baseball squabble between stockholders supporting Indians President Ellis Ryan and an opposing group headed by Nate Dolin reaches a climax Thursday at a "showdown" meeting at the stadium.

It will be decided at the meeting, slated for 10 a. m., whether Ryan will continue as president of the Indians. But it also is very likely that the situation will reach a stalemate, with neither side willing to sell its share of stock and bow out of Cleveland baseball.

The challenger, who has lost only one fight in nearly three and a half years, fought on the pace in a relentless fashion. Fighting out of a crouch, he whaled Maxim's body with devastating body punches that took the spring out of Maxim's legs and cut his face to ribbons.

When Maxim held on for dear life, Moore snarled at him: "Fight." Maxim just held. All that Maxim could offer were his occasional left jabs and short left hooks plus a few rights that just brought a smile to Moore's face.

The crowd, which contributed to a record St. Louis gate of $89,487, at times roared for Moore to "put him away" and to Maxim to "hold on."

Scowling Archie gave an indication of what was to come in the first round when he smashed a terrific right to Maxim's jaw.

Maxim came back in the second to earn it by a slight edge with his jabs and hooks. In the third, Moore scored with body barrages. Moore shook up Maxim again in the fourth with a right

Moore Flails Maxim For Lighthheavy Title

Thirty-Six-Year-Old Challenger Outpoints Champion Before 12,910 at St. Louis Arena

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 17.—(P)—Grim-faced, determined Archie Moore made up for years of bitter frustration Wednesday night by battering light heavyweight Champion Joey Maxim into a bleeding hulk to win the 175-pound title by unanimous decision.

Ignored by one champion after another for over five years, the "uncrowned champion" made it official by blasting the 30-year-old Cleveland from beginning to end.

A roaring crowd of 12,610 in the arena and millions more along TV beam watched the 36-year-old Negro's one-sided triumph.

Thus Moore became the oldest light-heavyweight king since Ruby Bob Fitzsimmons grabbed the crown at the age of 41. Maxim's defeat came in his third defense of the crown he won nearly three years ago.

The challenger rocked the champion in the very first round, staggered him often afterward but couldn't bring the game Maxim down.

At the finish, Maxim was bleeding from cuts under both eyes, from a gash on his left cheek bone and from the nose. There was no doubt as to what the decision was going to be.

Judge Howard Hess scored it 82-68; Judge Fred Connell had it 87-63, while Referee Harry Kessler, who kept up a running chatter throughout, had it surprisingly close, 76-74.

The Associated Press had Moore the winner, 87-63, 12 rounds to two and one even. The fourth round went to Joey because of a low blow.

Moore, who was outweighted 174½ to 172½, was an 8-5 favorite.

The challenger, who has lost only one fight in nearly three and a half years, fought on the pace in a relentless fashion. Fighting out of a crouch, he whaled Maxim's body with devastating body punches that took the spring out of Maxim's legs and cut his face to ribbons.

KICKED 48 POINTS

Rodgers Is Nation's Toe-Scoring Champ

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—(P)—Frank (Pepper) Rodgers, Georgia Tech's kicking specialist, was the toe-scoring champion of major college football teams during the past season, final statistics disclosed Wednesday.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association's service bureau, which keeps tab on such details, revealed Rodgers accounted for 48 points with his kicking alone.

The pepper boy with the red-hot toe booted four field goals, high in the country, and made good on 36 of 41 conversion attempts.

The top extra-point kicker, however, was Tom Miner, Tulsa end, who put 31 of his 45 attempts through the uprights. The NCAA figure filberts announced this is the most extra points any kicker ever made with such few misses.

Place-kicking generally was on a high scale around the country and there was the largest number of field goals in the college sports in years.

The best kicking percentage among those with at least 30 attempts belonged to Buddy Leake, Oklahoma halfback, who scored on 32 of 33 chances for 97 per cent. Leake kicked 28 straight before missing against Iowa State.

Columbia's Al Ward kicked the most extra points without a miss, 16. Rex Shain, Army center, booted 21 of 22 for 95.3 per cent. Mel Roach of Virginia and Evan Slocum of Michigan State pressed Miner for the largest number of conversions with 37 each.

The nation's leading scorer was Jack Parker of Mississippi State, who tallied 120 of his team's 255 points. Parker had 16 touchdowns and 24 extra points.

Julius Boros Wins PGA Money Derby

Open Champ Banks $37,052;
Burke Takes Vardon Trophy

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—Julius Boros, golf's cinderella man, Wednesday officially was crowned 1952 money-winning champion and sharpshooting Jack Burke Jr., certified as Vardon Trophy winner.

Final PGA tabulation of cash collecting along the tourney trail credited Boros with $37,052 against a paltry $4,697 in 1951 when he finished 34th money-winner in his first full year of pro tourney play.

Boros, the silent-sweet-swinging from Mid Pines, N. C., finished some $6,100 ahead of runner-up Cary Middlecoff, who earned $30,884.

Burke, whose 70.54-stroke average for 78 rounds won the coveted Vardon award, was third in money-winning with $21,003. The handsome pro from Houston, Texas, also leads in Ryder Cup points as of Dec. 15 with 519 7/12, about 17 ahead of Sammy Snead's 502 2/3.

Snead was fourth in earnings with $19,908. In all, 14 players won $10,000 or more, also including Ted Kroll, $17,500; Jim Ferrier, $15,811; Dave Douglas, $15,173; Doug Ford, $14,566; Lloyd Mangrum, the 1951 money-winning champion with $26,088, who earned $13,422 this year; Ed Oliver, $13,359; Jim Turnesa, $13,356; Tommy Bolt, $11,914; Johnny Palmer, $11,095, and Al Besselink, $10,004.

Although Boros reached his artistic height of the year with his U. S. Open triumph, he struck his real pot of gold in George S. May's "World Championship of Golf" at Chicago by winning a play-off from Middlecoff for the $25,000 first prize.

TROUBLE FOR LIONS—Dec. 17.—Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch (L) and Tom Fears of the Los Angeles Rams, two of the best ends in professional football, are expected to carry a big part of the offensive load when the Rams tangle with Detroit Lions Sunday in Detroit for the National Conference championship of the National Football League. Between them they have accounted for more than half of the 2,292 air yards gained by the Rams this season.

Bengals Roll Past Alabamans, 58-45

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 17.—Louisiana State's high-scoring quintet ran into a tight Alabama defense Wednesday night, but overcame the Tide in a closely fought battle, 58-45.

Both the Bengals and their towering 6-10 center, Bob Pettit, found Alabama's goal protection hard to crack, and he wound up with 20 points, compared with his 30.5 average this season.

Pettit drew four fouls by the middle of the third quarter, and played carefully thereafter to avoid fouling out of the game.

Alabama, rebuffed steadily in its efforts to penetrate LSU's smart man-to-man defense, scored only four points in the second quarter.

The Tide showed signs of spurring with five minutes left in the last period, closing the gap to six points. With the Tigers leading 46-40, Pettit came back with a quick tip-in and a free throw to dampen the late effort.

LSU hit 24 of 73 field goal attempts and Alabama 13 of 44. Tide center Jerry Harper outdied Pettit under the basket, grabbing 14 rebounds against 10 for Pettit. The box:

PGA Pro-Am At Druid Hills

Atlanta PGA members will visit Druid Hills Golf Club Thursday afternoon for their second pro-amateur meet of the month.

Charlie Miller, the host pro, will be in charge of the tourney. Bill Barker, who captured most of the money at last week's Meadowbrook Country Club, will be among the professional starters.

Yank Netters Face Italy Today

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 17.—Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert are heavily favored to score opening singles victories Thursday when the United States Davis Cup tennis forces meet Italy in the interzone finals.

Seixas, the sharp-volleying Philadelphian who heads the U. S. team, plays Italy's top performer, Fausto Gardini, in the opening match. Trabert, Cincinnati sailor on leave, faces the 36-year-old veteran, Gianni Cucilli.

The Italians are so pessimistic about their chances that they have booked seats for home on Sunday night's plane. The Americans, on the other hand, made reservations to Adelaide, where the challenge round with Australia will be played Dec. 29-31.

The Italians were far from happy over the draw. Manager Pino Bono said, "It makes it tough for us from the start. Had Gardini met Trabert first we would have had a much better chance."

Around 10,000 Australians are expected to pour into White City stadium for the three-day inter-zone finals. The doubles will be played Friday, with Seixas and other two singles are scheduled Trabert probably meeting Cucilli Saturday.

MURPHY'S FOUR HORSEMEN WITH MASTER AFTER ACTION IS OVER

Richard Blair Cited As Murphy's Top Back

Butler Hailed for Blocking, Seabolt
For Faking at Annual Grid Banquet

By REX EDMONDSON

Just as was predicted by Murphy followers, quarterback Richard Blair took top honors as most valuable back Wednesday night at the Murphy football banquet.

The boy who quarterbacked the Eagles to a city and state AA grid championship under the tutelage of Coach Max Ivey, received the trophy awarded annually to the top man of the squad, with back award and a trophy for best Max Butler receiving the blocking faking back going to C. W. Seabolt.

Blair and Thornton (Stumpy) Smith received the co-captains' awards.

Gold footballs were awarded to members of the team by the Georgia High School Association, but since the state provided only 25 and there were 36 the team, nine boys were without footballs.

City athletic director Sid Scarborough announced the city would furnish the nine footballs and everyone was happy.

Thirty-two jackets and 36 letters were awarded by the school, with Principal G. M. McCord serving as toastmaster for the occasion.

Special tribute was paid to the coaching staff, Morris Phelps, A. T. Harmon, Garland Williams, and Thomas Redmond.

Special guests included Sid Scarborough and Charlie Murphy, for whom Murphy High was named.

Bass Hails Maxey, Mitchell, Williams

Jim Mitchell, Weyman Maxey and Bob Williams took top honors at the Bass High banquet Wednesday night at the Sara Holcombe Tearoom as 39 varsity players were awarded letters and jackets.

Mitchell was awarded the best blocker trophy. End Maxey received a c-c-improved linemen award and Williams took most improved back trophy.

Joe Sims and Gary Merriman were announced as captains by Coach Swede Phillips and letters were awarded to the following:

Westminster Triumphs

Westminster took a 35-27 basketball victory from the Marxist "B" squad Wednesday night with Tommy Bates, city junior golf champion, leading the scoring attack for the winners with 12. Westminster led all the way.

Eagles Meet Smith Five At Bass Gym

Round one in the city basketball scrap gets under way Thursday night when Murphy's Eagles and the Smith High Smithies tangle at Bass.

Shirley Watkins' Smithies have only one regular from last season returning, but have some more than adequate talent lined up in his newcomers, and are considered one of the more serious threats to Brown's Rebels, who will be out to defend their city and state AA championship.

Murphy looms as another potential threat if its football-weary nucleus can round into cage condition soon enough.

The Eagles have C. W. Seabolt, Bob Juhan, Roy Vickery, Richard Blair, and Billy Hester coming from the grid wars, and have not had much time to ready their patterns for the Smith opener.

Watkins has only Mayvin Moon returning from last season's varsity regulars, but several are back with experience and the Smithies can look to Moon (6-4) and Bob Keenan (6-3) for their height.

Friday night things really get hot with Northside going to Brown, Murphy opening at Fulton, Grady evading Smith, North Fulton hosting Sylvan, O'Keefe playing at Southwest and West Fulton at Roosevelt. Bass has an open date Friday.

Saturday's main event is the North Fulton at Brown game. Bass opens at home with Fulton. Sylvan goes to Northside. Roosevelt to O'Keefe and West Fulton stays home to play Southwest.

O'Keefe Beats Chamblee Five

Beaten by a 37-point margin last week by Chamblee, O'Keefe's basketballers came back Wednesday night on their home court to reverse the decision, 66-52.

Dickie Duncan's 18 counters and the expert rebounding of Bill Salter proved the difference in this second clash. Pete Martin was tops for Chamblee with 19 points.

In the preliminary girls' game, Chamblee edged the Irish lasses, 35-33, in an overtime.

IF YOU WANT something different in fishing, and a fish that is sheer bedlam on the end of your line, the time is about ripe for it.

It won't be many weeks before the white shad start their annual migration from the Atlantic into such Georgia rivers as the Saint Marys, Altamaha and Ogeechee to spawn.

The most productive method of angling seems to be trolling at a very slow pace. For tackle you will need a fairly stiff bait casting rod, plenty of line, a few leads and swivels and some flashing little spoons.

The shad is a silver-sided fish that grows big and wide. He strikes savagely, sometimes takes to the air, and always makes swift razoring runs.

The flesh of the fish is rich and delectable although somewhat bony. Shad roe is a gourmet's delight that you will have to price at a delicatessen to appreciate properly.

We know several good spots along the Ogeechee where the shad congregate. Stop by and let us help you with your shad rig and road map.

From any cut of meat he slices pieces about four or five inches long and not more than 1/4 inch thick. He spoons a blob of butter as big as an egg into a large skillet. When the butter is beginning to smoke, he drops in the meat. He turns the slices after not more than 15 seconds. In another 15 seconds he lifts the skillet from the fire, adds salt and pepper, and spills the contents on a plate.

All you have to do is to spread some of the gravy on two slices of bread, add a few pieces of the meat and pay the cook your compliments.

I agree with him when he says this is the only way to cook freshly killed venison.

Back Income Tax Payments Reach $200,000 in State

State Revenue Commissioner, Charles D. Redwine said that the income tax unit of the State Revenue Department is collecting about $40,000 a month in delinquent income tax payments and has collected a total of about $200,000 in such payments.

Fi fas have been issued against all persons delinquent on their 1951 income taxes, Redwine said. About 20,000 persons filed income tax returns this year but failed to include a payment with their returns, he said.

The commissioner said these delinquents were first sent notices and then second notices informing them that the state would issue fi fas against them. The second notices got about an 85 per cent response, Redwine added.

The state collected about $39,000,000 in income taxes this year, but Redwine said he anticipates a reduction of about $10,000,000 in collections next year because of federal excess profit taxes that became effective in 1951 and will be reflected in 1953 state income tax deductions on 1952 incomes.

Prison Camp Fire Stresses Safety Need

Destruction of the Miller County public works camp by fire Monday points up the reason why the State Department of Corrections has been urging fireproof, masonry construction for all county camps. Asst. Director of Corrections J. B. Hatchett said Wednesday.

The barracks, dining room and kitchen of the camp, of frame construction, burned at an estimated loss of $15,000. Hatchett said, but would cost about $25,000 to replace. Hatchett said the warden reported that the blaze started from a defective stove.

Fortunately, the fire occurred during the afternoon when the camp's 24 prisoners were away at work on public roads, and no injuries resulted. The prisoners have been transferred to adjoining counties and the camp at Colquitt has been closed. Hatchett said it will be up to the Miller County commissioners to determine whether they want to rebuild and re-establish the camp.

Many of Georgia's county public works camps, housing state prisoners, have been rebuilt of masonry construction in recent years, but there are still many, like the Miller County camp, of frame construction.

MacArthur Gives Views On Korea

Meets With Ike
In Home of Dulles

Dulles got into the car with Eisenhower.

Eisenhower was asked, before his car pulled away, if he planned to talk soon again with MacArthur. "I certainly hope it isn't another six years before we meet again," he replied. "Surely, we'll see each other."

The last face-to-face meeting between the two generals was in Tokyo in 1946, when Eisenhower was chief of staff and MacArthur was supreme Allied commander in the Far East. Earlier Eisenhower had served on MacArthur's staff as a major and as a lieutenant colonel.

They had rooms in the same hotel during the Republican National Convention in Chicago this summer, at which MacArthur delivered the keynote address, but they did not meet. MacArthur, who had been mentioned as a possible dark-horse candidate for the nomination, favored the nomination of Senator Taft.

While carefully avoiding any disclosure of details of MacArthur's plan for ending the Korean conflict, today's statements by the two principals put strong emphasis on the necessity for emphasizing the fighting there in connection with a more general settlement of the tensions now existing between Communist and non-Communist governments in general.

"PAINFUL PHASE"

This was in line with Eisenhower's statement of last Sunday, on his return from a 22,000-mile visit to the Korean battle front, that the warfare there was primarily a "dramatic and painful phase" of the wider struggle that has been going on since the end of World War II.

Today's meeting had been in prospect since Dec. 10, when Eisenhower, on his way home from Korea aboard the cruiser Helena, had sent a message to his former superior stating that he had read excerpts from MacArthur's Dec. 5 speech and would like to discuss the subject with him on his return.

James C. Hagerly, Eisenhower's press secretary, disclosed that Eisenhower had asked Dulles to arrange the meeting. Dulles had been in close contact with the former Far East commander when he was drafting the Japanese Peace Treaty as a special assistant to Secretary Acheson. Preliminary arrangements for the session were made Tuesday afternoon and these were confirmed by telephone this morning.

PLANS KEPT SECRET

The time and place of the meeting were not disclosed until after the President-elect and Dulles had left the Eisenhower headquarters in the Hotel Commodore for the Dulles home shortly after noon. Hagerly then announced that MacArthur would meet them for lunch at the Dulles home.

Reporters, photographers, news-reel and television men kept vigil outside the Dulles home while the conference was going on. Several hundred residents of the area and passersby were attracted by the assemblage, and a special police detail was sent to the scene to supplement the regular Secret Service crew assigned to the President-elect.

Peter, which means a rock. Philip came next and he brought along his chum, Bartholomew, also known as Nathaniel. Others came later, including two named James.

With these followers, Jesus took the long walk home to Nazareth so that Mary, His mother, could meet His new friends. And right away a strange thing happened. That night they all went to a house in a town called Cana. The young lady of the house was getting married and there was a happy wedding party. But something went wrong.

Mary came to Jesus and told Him the trouble. There was food for all but not enough wine for the people to drink. What could He do to help?

RED GRAPE JUICE

Jesus wanted to please His mother and to help the worried family. So He called the servants. They carried in six red jars, each one taller than a boy and filled with water. Jesus prayed over the water and then told the people to taste it. They could not believe their own mouths. It was not just water any more. It was the red juice of with boys and girls.

the president-elect's recent Korean visit and in the presence of Generals Bradley and Clark "told the old man a thing or two."

READY TO GO

According to these informants Van Fleet told Eisenhower the Eighth Army was prepared to mount a spring offensive to the narrow "waist" of Korea along the Pyongyang-Wonsan line but that to go further, as General MacArthur did, would require more help.

Van Fleet, according to the source, told Eisenhower the present stalemate is "folly" and that America can only be hurt by the war of attrition the Communists are waging against the Allies in Korea.

And then, the informants said, Van Fleet told Eisenhower that unless he was given the go-ahead to fight in Korea he wanted to leave the army.

Eisenhower reportedly told his old friend and comrade-in-arms that before he could answer he had to weigh the entire global picture and decide whether the United States could lead an offensive in Korea.

the state is $52,468,652 as compared with $32,931,000 in 1948. Additional employees plus expansion of the merit system and its pay raises are responsible for this increase, Thrasher said.

State revenue commissioner Charlie Redwine suggested cutting down on tax refunds, declaring he is refunding 4 per cent of the taxes he collects on gasoline.

Redwine declared the legislature should abolish the 2 per cent tax refund given to retail gasoline dealers for "shrinkage." This costs the state $600,000 annually, he pointed out. The commissioner said no other taxpayer receives any such refund. Other gas tax refunds are on gasoline used in farming, aviation, and for boats.

Rep. Bill Brantley of Upson County expressed the belief that the $8,000,000 needed to finance a 10 per cent pay raise for teachers could be found through elimination of "useless employees" and waste at the State Capital.

However, Thrasher warned that the proposed 10 per cent pay hike would jeopardize even the Minimum Foundation Program for Education.

The auditor said GEA spokesmen aren't mentioning the $12,000,000 additional funds necessary to carry on the foundation program. If the teachers are given an over-all pay increase of $8,000,000 in lieu of the additional financing for the MEP, the MEP will break down in its objectives of providing better trained teachers, Thrasher said.

Frank Hughes of Adel, president of the Georgia Education Association, said that the increase is being sought because the salary scale was a minimum when it became effective in 1951. Now that inflation has reduced this scale below the minimum needs, he said the Georgia Education Association is only asking that salaries be brought back up to a "minimum."

BITTER FIGHT

Meanwhile a bitter fight appears in the making over Governor Talmadge's insistence that the legislature hold a single session for 70 days, instead of dividing the meeting into two annual sessions.

Administration strategy seems to be to try to get the Senate to defeat a resolution calling for a split session, and thereby kill the plan without submitting it to the House. Sentiment in the House is overwhelmingly against a single session.

As the solons went home to study proposals for January, House speaker Fred Hand of Pelham summed up the attitude of all legislators on one point: "There will be no tax increases in January."

At the urging of U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, the Council adopted a resolution he drafted stating that the French war against "The Communist-led Vietnam in Indochina" "deserves continuing support from NATO governments." No money was voted.

The Council also urged the European Defense Community, consisting of West Germany, France, Italy and the Low Countries, to get busy and ratify their army treaty so as to bring 12 East German divisions into the West's defense.

House Rejects Bid To Take U. S. Tax Off State Returns

The State House committee Wednesday rejected a plan to eliminate deductions of federal income tax payments from state income tax returns and prevent additional costs to Georgia taxpayers by lowering state rates.

The idea was suggested by Fred Cox, of the State Revenue department, to save administrative costs. It would have meant no savings and no tax increase to the taxpayer.

of Railroadings!

THERE'S GOOD REASON why the Southern Railway System today probably has more new and modernized yards and terminals than any other railroad in the country.

Our modern Diesel locomotives—we soon will be 100% Dieselized—have been doing a record-breaking job of hauling our freight cars between terminals. But that wasn't enough. A new kind of railroading was needed in terminals, too—so that time gained out on the line wouldn't be lost by cars "loafing" in old-fashioned yards.

That's why the Southern has been building new, ultra modern "push-button" yards like the $10 million yard shown above—modernizing existing yards—improving freight handling methods all along the line.

From this new kind of railroading is coming faster, better-than-ever service to the growing Southland we serve.

Kimbrough Slated for Parole Post

Governor Confirms Previous Reports

By ALBERT RILEY

The way was paved Wednesday for William H. Kimbrough, 40-year-old executive secretary to Gov. Talmadge, to succeed Chairman Edward D. Everett as a member of the State Pardon and Parole Board when Everett, whose term expires in January, removed himself from consideration for reappointment.

The governor, at his press conference, confirmed previous reports that Kimbrough will replace Everett.

SINCERE EFFORT

In a letter to the governor, made public by Talmadge Wednesday, Everett said that "in a sincere effort to prevent or eliminate any possible criticism that might arise against you for not reappointing me, I wish to request that my name not be considered."

Talmadge also released his reply to Everett, which complimented the retiring chairman and the other members of the Pardon and Parole Board for services "that have brought nothing but credit and praise to our state," and said: "I desire to express my congratulations as chief executive for this performance of duties and wish you much success in your future endeavors, particularly for the holiday season and the new year."

Everett, veteran career official who has served under Arnall, Thompson and Talmadge administrations, said in part in his letter to the governor:

"Although I have heard nothing from you directly, it is my understanding that you have definitely decided to appoint Mr. William Kimbrough as a member of the Pardon and Parole Board when my time expires on Jan. 1, 1953. "I would like to terminate my tenure of office in the friendly and co-operative spirit which has existed in the past . . .

"I WANT TO ASSURE . . ."

"As governor you should have a free hand in making appointments, and I want to assure you that I have asked no one to intercede in my behalf, nor has there been nor will there be any criticism on my part. It has been most pleasant working with your appointees, Mrs. Rebecca Rainey and Mr. Charles A. Pannell, whom I greatly respect and admire, and I feel certain that your selection of Mr. Kimbrough will prove as wise as your selection of the other two members . . ."

William Henry Kimbrough, whose appointment will be for a seven-year term, is an attorney, an Army counter intelligence veteran of Pacific combat, and a close friend and former brother-in-law of the governor.

Kimbrough was born at Greensboro, Ga., in 1912, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kimbrough Sr., and was reared there by his uncle, Edward A. Kimbrough.

He was graduated from Greensboro High School, received his law degree from the Atlanta Law School in 1938 and was admitted to the bar in 1939. He began the practice of law in Atlanta in 1940 and in January, 1943, joined the law firm of the late Gov. Eugene Talmadge.

In June, 1943, Kimbrough entered the Army Air Corps, was assigned to station intelligence duties, then sent to counter intelligence school and became an agent in the CIC. He participated in the Okinawa campaign and after the Japanese surrender went to Korea to guard the security of U. S. troops landing at Inchon. After serving at Inchon, Seoul and Pusan, Kimbrough returned to the States in March, 1946 to receive his discharge.

He rejoined the late Eugene Talmadge's law office and aided Herman Talmadge in working for Eugene Talmadge's election as governor.

Methodists Expect 800 At Call Meet

More than 800 ministers and laymen are expected to attend a called session of the North Georgia Methodist Conference at Wesley Memorial Methodist Church here Thursday.

Bishop Arthur J. Moore, who will preside over the all-day meeting, called the session to plan North Georgia Conference participation in the Southeastern United Evangelical Mission in April and May, 1953, and to allow delegates to consider a proposed "Methodist Expansion Day" plan.

Under the proposal, unanimously endorsed by delegates at a called session of the South Georgia Methodist Conference in Cordele Tuesday, fund-raising appeals of the Methodist church would be combined in one giant drive.

Funds obtained in a one-day campaign would then be apportioned to take care of Methodist needs, with major share of funds to go to a church-building program.

Sessions will begin here at 10 a. m. Thursday and continue through 4 p. m. Speakers will include Bishop John W. Branscomb, of Jacksonville, Fla., presiding bishop of the Methodist Church in Florida and Cuba; the Rev. Delma Hagood, Methodist district superintendent in Rome; the Rev. Leonard H. Cochran, pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church in Columbus; Dr. Nat G. Long, pastor of Peachtree Road Methodist Church in Atlanta, and the Rev. J. Lester McGee, of Nashville, Tenn., representative of the Methodist Board of Evangelism.

A GIFT FOR COMMUNITY CHEST PRESIDENT
Ed D. Smith Presents Silver to Mills B. Lane Jr.

Chest Trustees Approve Merger With Plan Council

Merger of the Greater Atlanta Community Chest and the Community Planning Council into a new organization to be chartered as the Metropolitan Atlanta Community Services, Inc., was formally approved here Tuesday by chest trustees.

The new agency is designed to "eliminate existing duplications and fill gaps in Atlanta's present community welfare program," sponsors said.

MEETING SET

It will be activated at a Jan. 14 organizational meeting, when officers and a board of directors will be named.

Outgoing chest president Mills B. Lane Jr. Tuesday named a nominating committee headed by Ivan Allen Jr., past chest president, to submit a list of nominees for officers and board members at the organizational meeting.

Other nominating committee members are W. C. Wardlaw Jr., Boy Scout leader; Oby Brewer, Scottish Rite representative; Neil Baird, president of the Atlanta Bar Association; Robert Sams and R. L. Foreman of the Community Planning Council, and the three co-chairmen of the 1952 Community Chest campaign, Hal Smith, Philip Alston and Malon Courts.

The merger plan was submitted to trustees by an implementing committee headed by E. D. Smith, whose committee worked more than a year on the plan, declared:

"Combining the two organizations will increase efficiency of both and bring about a substantial financial saving to the community."

Plan approved by chest trustees will set up two divisions in the new agency, a fund-raising unit for chest-supported Red Feather agencies and a planning unit which will make a continuous study of community needs and resources.

STAFF GUIDE

Each division will be under staff guidance of an associate director, and all activities will be co-ordinated by an executive director.

Lane, lauded at the trustees' meeting for progress of the chest under his term of office, was presented with a gift from board members of two pieces of silver inscribed with trustees' names and a message citing his "devoted and able service."

Campaign chairman reported an audited total of $1,617,377 was received in the recent chest drive, or $161,510 more than was raised last year.

The Jan. 14 meeting setting machinery in motion for the new agency will have a minimum of 295 delegates representing 95 community agencies and the "general public," chest leaders said.

Bentley, of Upson, Talmadge Aide, Appointed Secretary to Governor

Governor Talmadge disclosed Wednesday night that he is appointing James Bentley of Thomaston to succeed William H. Kimbrough as his executive secretary. Bentley has been serving on the governor's staff.

Talmadge also announced the appointment of Rep. Fred Jones Jr. of Lumpkin County as a member of the Game and Fish Commission to succeed Dr. Clabus Lloyd of Gainesville.

Atlanta's TV GetsSchenectady's Signal

The television airplanes were filled with freaks Tuesday night.

Viewers in Chattanooga, Tenn., who normally find excellent reception on WSB-TV's Channel 2 were dumfounded Tuesday night when they found a station in Santiago, Cuba, had horned in on that channel.

At the same time a member of the WSB-Radio staff, Tommy Thompson, picked up Schenectady on still another channel in Atlanta.

Later that night Chattanooga viewers switched to Channel 4 and were startled to see WEZ-TV, Boston, Mass., leap in with a strong signal for approximately 30 minutes.

Freak weather conditions were credited with the unusual reception by WSB-TV engineers.

New Postal Record Seen This Week

As the daily inflow of cards and letters passed the 2,000,000 mark, Atlanta post office officials warned that Thursday is the last day they can guarantee to get in-city mail to its destination before Christmas.

Looking at reports showing that 2,035,230 letters and cards were stamped with the Atlanta postmark on Thursday, Acting Postmaster Clyde Fleming predicted that more than 3,000,000 letters would be mailed in a single day later in the week.

This would break the record one-day intake on Dec. 18, 1951, when 2,904,659 letters were mailed, he said.

The Atlanta offices handled 182,480 packages Tuesday, more than tripling the 60,000 outgoing packages in a normal day. Receipts Tuesday totaled $101,074, more than any single day last year and approaching the record $104,000 for a December day in 1950.

In the first 16 days of December this year, 15,874,927 letters and cards were mailed here, compared with a little over 14,000,000 posted in the same period last year.

Forest Park Yule Program Set Tonight

A special program of Christmas music will be presented at Forest Park Gym Thursday at 8 p. m., featuring the Forest Park Band under the direction of William Reid, four church choirs and the fifth and sixth grades of the school.

The program, entitled "The Christmas Story," will open with a procession, "Adeste Fideles," sung by the choirs of the Forest Grove Baptist, Christian, Jones Memorial Methodist and Philadelphia Presbyterian Churches. The choirs, congregation and the band will join in a group of traditional carols, including "The First Noel," "Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and others. Soloists will be Mary Louise Alexander, Virginia Collier, Sara Baker and Albert Folds.

Prayers and readings by Forest Park students will be interspersed throughout the program.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist
Should you tell your child you "don't know"?

Answer: By all means—if it's true. The first realization that Mother and Daddy don't "know everything" is a real blow to a child's sense of security but it is one from which he cannot be protected permanently except at the cost of making him unable to face reality—one of the most deadly injuries you could inflict upon him. As for the effect on his "respect" for you, that will be weakened much more by his finding that you have been bluffing or deceiving him than by his realizing that you are only human and are willing to admit it. The discovery of how much there is that no one knows is an essential part of every child's education.

listener's education made some difference, it was found that "interestingness" did more to make a talk understood than did clearness or simplicity. The way to arouse interest is to deal with "concrete subjects of a practical kind" which are familiar or affect listeners personally.

Are you always able to "help others"?

Answer: Neither as much nor as often as you would like, if you are a person of normal "good will." The wish to be helpful is perhaps the most desirable sublimation of the will to power, but the fact remains that every individual has problems which no one else can solve for him and which you may only complicate by trying to help with (an "infatuation" is a good example). Your main danger, if you try to help a person and fail, is that you will either resent the frustration of your "good intentions" or start blaming yourself for what was in no sense your fault. The ablest physician can't cure all his patients.

Calcium Deficiency

Brings Out Warning

Before we quarrel I beg to say that the suggestion I offer today is my own and I am no authority, but, like all of my teachings, it is based on observations made or conclusions reached by recognized authorities.

It is unnecessary to cite authorities for the statement that the everyday diet of most Americans is deficient in calcium.

In medical literature one finds frequent allusion to the steady loss of calcium from the bones, teeth and other tissues, that occurs whenever patients are confined to bed for weeks or months. Whether this enfeeblement can be prevented by seeing to it that the patient gets a high-calcium diet throughout the period of confinement or a suitable daily dietary supplement of calcium-phosphorus-D, is a question which remains to be answered. Some physicians now take this precaution for their bed-ridden patients.

In this column I have harped on the manifold common ailments which, as I believe, are due to calcium deficiency, and which, as hundreds of readers have reported, respond to increased calcium intake over a sufficient period of months.

For more detailed information, I have pamphlets upon the following ailments:

1. Relief for Allergy
2. Why Have Headache?
3. Bronchial Asthma
4. Hay Fever
5. Hives and Giant Hives (Angioneurotic Edema)
6. Eczema
7. Calcium and Rheumatism
8. Growing Pains and Adult Tetany (painful nocturnal leg of arm cramps)

9. Shaking Palsy (Parkinson's tremor)

In a talk to follow I'll quote briefly the views of recognized authorities on the physiological action of calcium. For the present suffice to say that calcium tends to prevent spasm or constriction of the coronary arteries and maintain the vigor of the heart beat. Remember, this applies not only to an adequate daily intake of calcium in the diet (liberal use of milk and milk products such as cheese of any kind, eggs, greens as relish or salad, peanuts, peas, beans and nuts), but also to preparations of calcium (with phosphorus and vitamin D) used as a daily supplement for the ordinary American diet which is usually deficient in calcium-phosphorus-D.

These are some of the facts which, it seems to me, raise a grave question of the practice of confining to bed for weeks or months patients who have had a coronary casualty.

Tot Counsels Daddy

ST. LOUIS — John McCann had a few of the boys over for poker one night. His tiny daughter Kathleen kept running in and out of the kitchen, interrupting the smooth progress of the game. Daddy said he would spank her and put her to bed if she didn't stay out of the room. Kathleen merely put her hand on his arm and said, "Down, boy."

DAR Sets Birthday Celebration

Instead of receiving gifts, one Atlanta organization will celebrate its birthday by giving to others.

At the fourth anniversary party of the Cherokee chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Friday, members will bring beads and costume jewelry for American Indian schoolchildren.

The party will be held at 11 a. m. Friday at the Piedmont Driving Club.

The Indians will use the jewelry in arts and crafts programs in government-sponsored schools.

The DAR has an active program of support of the schools for the Indians. Mrs. Leon Jones Jr. is chairman of this program in the local chapter.

Also on the birthday party program will be a quiz on the American flag, led by Mrs. Dene Christopher, and a musical program by Mrs. W. C. Gemperline and Donald and William Denmore. Mrs. Hinton Blackshear is regent.

Honor guests will be Mrs. E. Earle Stribling, state regent, and Mrs. Robert Humphrey, state vice-regent.

Public Affairs Class

Mrs. L. A. Heinzenberger of 685 Argonne Ave., will entertain members of the Public Affairs Study Class with a morning coffee at 11 a. m. Friday.

No Table Hopping for Co-ed At Sight of Lowly Rodent

By JEAN ROONEY

One Emory co-ed doesn't hoist her skirts and board the nearest table at the sight of the lowly low-slung rat.

"Some of my best friends are rats," says Nancy Noble. And the personable young scientist, who is completing her doctorate at Emory University this winter, doesn't mean to be disrespectful to her college companions.

Without the co-operation of about 250 white rats and 50 guinea pigs Nancy never would have completed the scientific dissertation that will give her a Ph. D. in biochemistry soon.

The brown-haired, likeable young woman has "almost lived" in the animal room of Emory's Anatomy Building since she started her graduate work in the summer of 1950, she admits.

Nancy's "pets" are among several hundred white rats, several score guinea pigs and an occasional pigeon, chicken and rabbit that live in an air-conditioned "home" in the basement of the Emory building.

With their help, Nancy has made new discoveries about the body's adrenal gland.

Through studying the pea-size adrenal organ in guinea pigs and rats, she has completed one of the first studies in this country on "The Glycogen Content of the Adrenal Gland."

Her detailed, patient study, soon to be on file in the Emory Library, may help medical men find a cure for arthritis, Addison's disease or other bodily disorders stemming from the adrenal.

Confessing she's been pretty much a "book worm" the last few years, Miss Noble hasn't let science completely overshadow her social life. She is active in campus social organizations.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Noble of Chattanooga, Nancy graduated from the University of Chattanooga and received her master's degree at Emory.

Will she miss her white rats, when school days are over? "They might make nice house pets," Nancy muses.

Surprise Fete Marks Sewell Anniversary

When Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sewell and their daughter, Helen, left home last evening, as far as Mrs. Sewell knew it was to go to a formal dinner given by an engineering society to which her husband belongs.

When they turned in at Hart's Peachtree Road restaurant, Mrs. Sewell grew a little suspicious, but it was not until she reached the Pink Room that she knew it was a grand surprise party planned by her husband in honor of their 20th wedding anniversary.

At a beautifully decorated table covers were placed for a group of their close friends, including Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Bussey of Austell, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin McFather of Canton, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hughes of Bremen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sewell, Mr. and Mrs. Paul West, Miss Mildred Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stiles.

Hadassah Will Hear Dr. Ghiora

Dr. Asher Ghiora of Israel, who is visiting America on a Hadassah Medical Organization scholarship, will address the Atlanta Business and Professional Group of Hadassah at 8:15 p. m. Thursday at the Mayfair Club. The visiting physician has been studying American methods of treating polio at Warm Springs. The program will also include the showing of a color film, "My Brother and I," produced in Israel. The film deals with the resettlement and rehabilitation of 55,000 young refugees in the new state of Israel.

The public is invited, with no admission charge.

All-Woman Administration Wins Admiration

Women in politics—and in government—is an old story to the small Mississippi town of Madison (pop. 540), not far from the state capital of Jackson. Since the first of 1951 the Mayor, all five aldermen and the town clerk of Madison have been women. The only male member of the city government is the town marshal. The women came into office on the wings of a reform movement launched by housewives who were fed up with such things as water that discolored the laundry, and dirty streets. How the ladies have made out is the story told here by Madison's mayor, Mrs. G. L. Crawford.

By MRS. G. L. CRAWFORD
(Written Expressly for INS)
MADISON, Miss., Dec. 17 — (INS)—Since the woman-in-politics is still rather new, you can bet your bottom dollar she is going to put everything she has into the job. The appointive positions, both state and national, as well as the increasing elective positions going to women are proof enough woman can hold her own and do a good job as a leader in government.

Holding office does not interfere to any great extent with homemaking. Sometimes it is necessary to have supper a little early on board meeting nights or have lunch a little late if a conference holds overtime. But most official duties can be planned not to interfere with home duties.

Among the projects we have carried out is an ordinance whereby the owner must bear half the expense of putting water under the highway to his property line. Formerly, the town had to pay all of it.

We have passed an ordinance governing traffic at the municipal airport to protect the town in case of accident or carelessness. We are now working on an ordinance regulating public eating places in the town. There have been complaints of speeding in the town and we have recently erected six speed limit signs.

We have drawn up new contracts for our municipally owned airport, which for the past several years has been a liability to the town, as far as expense has been concerned.

Madison received very little money from the airport before. Under new management and with the new contracts, the town will receive around $2,000 a year as rental from three hangars and the unused land, which has been leased for pasture.

Our big project right now is to build a small health center on the town lot for the use of both white and colored people of the community. This project is just getting under way.

The mayor is only a presiding officer at the Board of Alderman meetings and Madison is fortunate in having a capable and devoted set of aldermen and clerk, who have worked together with only one objective: to serve the town unselfishly and to the best of their ability. The marshal, who is the only man in the organization, has co-operated with us in every way.

I wouldn't take anything in the world for the experience I've had as mayor of Madison. On drives through the country, I used to admire the pretty trees, shrubs, homes and flowers in neighboring towns.

Now, I look for the condition of the streets, the water tank and the fire hydrants.

The only thing that scares me is all the publicity we have had. Too many people are watching to see how we are doing. We can't let the women down!

Celestine Sibley On Being Firm With a Dog

We all made clear our positions on dogs when Abel Sinclair came to our house to live. We were glad to have him, the beguiling honey-colored little fellow, but with dogs you have to begin by letting them know where you stand.

It would not do, we all said, to let Abel get the upper hand. He was cute, sure. Only about six inches long and six inches wide with the curls just beginning to come out on his droopy golden ears. His eyes were a shade or two deeper than his hide and the way he used those eyes to plead or reproach or woo... well, only a dog or a shameless woman would be guilty of such.

So we all were very firm with Abel.

Bessie said she would have no hand in the care and feeding of Abel nor would she participate in the slow and tedious educational farce known as housebreaking.

"I ain't," said Bessie firmly, "no dog nuss."

Our eldest child, being experienced in such matters, neatly sluffed off his responsibility in the training program by trading in his third of the dog for a sister's third interest in the cat, Mumpsy, long since housebroken.

He would love Abel and feed him, he said, but man-like he wanted no bonds to bind him to the unpleasant part of the relationship.

As for me, I loved Abel and would work my fingers to the bone minding his feed and taking him to walk but I would not, I vowed, suffer him to sleep in my bed. Something about my country upbringing caused me to rebel at the idea of dogs in the bed.

The girls had their list of taboos for Abel. He could sleep in their rooms, chew up their Sunday shoes, caper joyously over their beds. They were even willing to participate in his training but he could not, he positively could not, bother their precious dolls.

Abel heard all this. Ultimatum after ultimatum slid off his silken back like water off a duck's back. He promptly took for his own a doll from each girl's family, chewing off wigs and arms and hoisterously beating excelsior inside out all over the floor.

"Look, Mama," carolled the girls in unison. "Isn't he the smartest dog?"

He got under Bessie's feet and fixed his amber eyes on her, letting out a faint and piteous "woof" and she became his slave. She not only saves him her portion of the weekly hamburger ("meat's not good for me; runs my blood pressure up!"), she cleans up after him and always arranges for him to accompany her to the clothes line. ("Him's Bessie's help, him is.")

As for me, well, what would you do when he came to your bedside and whimpered in that lost and lonely fashion in the middle of the night? After all, he's only a baby dog and I can always get rid of the fleas.

Mr. McGill To Address Writers Club

Harold Random and Mrs. John Pfeiffer are prose chairmen. Mrs. Nanette Carter Smith, Mrs. Charles E. Lawrence and Mrs. Maud Lay Elton are poetry chairmen.

DEAR C. D.:

The woman in her thirties, forties or early fifties, who marries a man some years her junior—ordinarily she is biologically younger than her calendar age. Thus, when favored by nature, and aided by a buoyant spirit and faithful beauty care, the older bride usually seems physically as youthful as her young husband at the start of marriage. Or if she does not show a slight seniority at first, it is often observed as the companionship mellows, that she grows comparatively younger in looks, while her spouse grows older. The woman in the age-bracket, insofar as appearance goes. And after all, in the middle age, perhaps she grows philosophical about her opportunities, and happily accepts the goods the gods provide, when interested in marriage. My view is—"All's well that ends well." My advice to your group is to give Helen and Connie a

OLD ENOUGH TO UNDERSTAND
Tell Her of the Child Born in a Manger

MARCIA WINN

Teach Your Child Real Story of Christmas Day

Your child is 3 or 4, and Christmas, this year, you say to yourself, will really mean something to him at last. This pleases you. He knows all about Santa Claus, knows just what he wants, and is filled with wonder and wanting and excitement.

Certainly he is old enough to understand. If so, this is the time to tell him, as gently and sweetly as the Christmas angels might sing it, why we celebrate Christmas.

There is an old English Christmas song, not really a carol, that every child should learn when small. Perhaps you know it: "Christmas is a coming and the goose is getting fat. Please to put a penny in an old man's hat . . .

If you have no penny
Then a ha'penny will do.
And if you have no ha'penny,
Then God bless you . . ."

Tell him the meaning of this song—that Christmas is a time for aims as well as for cheer, that this is the time when every one, no matter how poor he may be, tries to remember those who are poorer. That is, he tries to think of others as well as of himself. This is the true spirit of Christmas, and if you want your child ever to know it, you should instill it in him now, by example as well as by words.

There are many simple paths. Almost every child has seen a sidewalk Santa Claus, for example, or a Salvation Army girl ringing a bell above her kettle.

The child is always eager to race up to the sidewalk Santa to whisper his Christmas wishes to him. When he is through, tell him why the Santa is there. Get him to put a penny of his own, a penny he has earned, into Santa's chimney. Tell him about those other children, those other people. Children are deeply compassionate. They will want to help others, if given a chance.

Soft candlelight brings warmth and friendliness into your home—on the table its sheer elegance reflects in each piece of crystal and silverware—on the mantle it casts intriguing shadows.

Georgia Fugitive Fighting Extradition

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 17.—A Negro has asked New Jersey not to send him back to a Georgia prison where he said he was unduly punished.

Robert Hampton, whose age was given as 22, appeared Tuesday before Leon Milmed, counsel to Gov. Alfred Driscoll, to fight extradition to Georgia. Milmed said the case would be considered.

Milmed said Hampton was sentenced to one-and-a-half years in a Georgia prison on charges of auto larceny, paroled, picked up on a breaking and entering charge and sentenced to two additional years.

ESCAPE CITED

Hampton escaped in February, 1951, Milmed said, and came to New Jersey in May, 1952. He has been living in Keansburg.

Georgia prison records in Atlanta, however, indicated Hampton still had more than six years to serve when he fled the Richmond County prison camp on Feb. 19, 1951.

According to these records, he was given three consecutive one to five-year sentences at Augusta, Ga., in 1946, paroled in 1948 and rearrested in 1949. His second arrest, Georgia prison officials said, reinstated the unserved portion of his earlier 3 to 15-year sentences.

WOULD BE 25

The Georgia records gave his age at the time of his first arrest as 19, which would make him 25 now. They identified him as Zelma, alias Robert Hampton. Hampton said he had been pun-

Expert in Tracking Down Cars Spots His Own Stolen Auto on Wash Rack

J. T. McKibben Jr. of Atlanta is considered an ace at tracking down stolen cars as an agent of an auto detective bureau—but now he has surprised even himself.

McKibben's green automobile, dusty after miles of sleuthing on Georgia highways, disappeared Sept. 24 from a parking place here. McKibben rode with other investigators for weeks—and he was making a routine check in Douglasville when his eye fell on a wash rack at a filling station. There was his own lost car, washed and shining!

He filed by Bessie Williams of Keansburg, for whom Hampton worked as a chauffeur and porter, attesting to Hampton's good behavior in New Jersey.

Student Cost Up $78 at University

The University of Georgia spent an average of $1,008 to educate each of its students during the past fiscal year, as compared with $930 spent during the previous year.

State Auditor B. E. Thrasher Jr. reported Wednesday that cost of operating the university rose from $4,977,423 in 1951 to $5,545,183 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1952.

The enrollment dropped from 4,886 to 4,294.

Attorney's Defense Overruled

Superior Court Judge Walter C. Hendrix Wednesday overruled objections of Atty. W. George Thomas to Sol. Gen. Paul Webb's petition to have Thomas disbarred.

Webb had charged that Thomas "fraudulently converted to his own use" $18,000 from an estate for which he was administrator. "Such conduct," Webb stated, "renders him a nuisance to the courts."

Thomas' attorney, William G. McRae, argued that the petition was legally insufficient and indicated the ruling would be appealed.

Injury Suit Here Asks $100,000 of U. S.

Clemoth Lee Adams filed suit here Wednesday seeking $100,000 damages from the Federal Government for injuries he said he received in loading operations at Atlanta General Depot two years ago. He claimed he suffered back injuries when a defective crate fell on him.

UN Takes Mild Stand On Tunis

Votes To Urge Negotiations

By OSGOOD CARUTHERS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 17.—The U. N. General Assembly agreed overwhelmingly tonight to urge France and Tunisia to negotiate a settlement of their differences on Tunisian demands for self-rule.

The full 60-nation Assembly, meeting in special night session, formally adopted by a vote of 44-3, with eight abstentions, a mildly worded Latin American resolution calling for French-Tunisian negotiations.

This resolution was adopted previously by the Assembly's Political Committee instead of one from 13 Arab and Asian nations who had proposed a U. N. good offices commission to supervise the dealings.

VOTE WITH OTHERS

The Arab-Asian bloc voted for the 11-nation Latin American resolution after its own plan was rejected.

But spokesmen for the group expressed disappointment that the U. N. did not take a stronger stand in demanding that France lift martial law in Tunisia and accept U. N. good offices.

The Soviet bloc abstained with its five votes on the ground that the resolution was too weak and did not assure independence for the Tunisians.

France boycotted the Tunisian debate on the ground that the U. N. was not competent to intervene in what she claims is a purely domestic issue.

SUPPORT FRANCE

Britain, Australia and Belgium supported France in this stand, claiming such interference threatened the very foundations of the U. N.

The Political Committee earlier today passed a similarly mild resolution, over U. S. opposition, calling on France to open urgent talks with her other North African protectorates, Morocco, on self-government.

Pakistan succeeded, however, in stiffening the mild Latin American resolution on Morocco. Originally the resolution expressed the hope "the parties will continue negotiations on an urgent basis toward developing the free political institutions of the people of Morocco."

FOUR ABSTAIN

The Pakistani amendment inserting the words "self-government" was adopted 28-23 with four abstaining.

It was here the U. S. dropped its support of the move. U. S. delegate Philip C. Jessup said Pakistan's amendment "seriously impaired the soundness of the original resolution."

The United States, however, had supported the Tunisian resolution which contained the same wording. U. S. sources explained the U. S. felt Morocco was not as far along the road to self-government as Tunisia.

Woman Juror in Red Trial Discharged For Discussing Marxism at Card Party

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—A woman juror in the conspiracy trial of 13 second-string Communists was discharged today for allegedly discussing her views on Marxism at a weekly card party.

Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock discharged Mrs. Sybil Kane, a former choir singer, because of a letter he received from another woman—a retired attorney—who had attended the party.

Dimock made it clear that Mrs. Kane had not been on record in favor of one side or the other but he ruled the court must avoid even the "appearance of evil." He denied a defense motion for a mistrial, however, ruling the other jurors were not "tainted."

The judge said the alleged discussion of the case took part at a bridge party. Mrs. Kane, who denied the charge made by Mrs. Julia Van Dornot, a friend for 40 years, said she and Mrs. Van Dornot and three other women played canasta every Monday night—not bridge.

Dimock said Mrs. Van Dornot complained that Mrs. Kane had said on the Monday before Thanksgiving that she had concluded that Marxism, as brought out by the government, meant the violent overthrow of the government.

"... Under the law, where a juror does communicate with others about the case, the presumption is that there has been some prejudice," Dimock ruled. "... I shall excuse Mrs. Kane."

IN EGG DISPUTE
Tobias E. Diamond

Prosecutor A Collector Of Bills?

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Former U. S. Attorney Tobias E. Diamond was confronted today with testimony that he used his Sioux City, Iowa, government office as a bill-collecting agency for a private law client.

But the 76-year-old attorney, who resigned under fire Nov. 9, indignantly denied the charge. He said he would pay "a dollar for every penny" it can be shown he received "improperly."

The sworn testimony was produced by a House Judiciary subcommittee which called Diamond for questioning in connection with its investigation of alleged scandals in the Justice department.

BILL ARGUED

Subcommittee Counsel Robert A. Collier said representatives of the Quality Egg Shippers, Inc., testified at Miami last month that Diamond threatened to send them to jail if they didn't pay a disputed bill Diamond was trying to collect from an Iowa egg produce firm.

Diamond conceded he told the group last May at the Florida city that there is a federal law providing penalties for failure to account for produce shipped to commission merchants.

He said he also told them, however, "I don't mean that for a threat." Diamond said he never used the word "jail."

THREAT CLAIM

The Miami witnesses said Diamond threatened to send them to jail and "unduly used his official position" in an effort to force them to pay a claim to Richard Swalve, a Georgia, Iowa, farmer who hired the attorney to represent him.

Irving M. Wolff, attorney for the egg firm, testified that Diamond used his position as U. S. attorney to threaten company representatives with prosecution if they did not pay Swalve's claim in full.

Wolff said the dispute involved $12,000 which the firm refused to pay on grounds that about $4,000 in credits due it for other services not recognized by Swalve should be deducted.

Sultan, Bey Only Bars to French Plans

New York Times News Service

Special to The Atlanta Constitution

TANGIER, Dec. 17.—Only two men—the sultan of Morocco and the bey of Tunis—still block achievement of French political objectives in North Africa after the tragic events of the past 12 days in this troubled area.

The wave of murder and riot that has plagued the two French protectorates of Morocco and Tunisia, flanking Algeria, has permitted authorities to remove from the political scene by arrest all of the leaders of the Nationalist movements who had strengthened the rulers in their resistance to French demands.

Now, with their domestic allies in exile here and in France, and their hopes for outside support from the United Nations all but dashed, the two rulers—Sidi Mohammed El Amin Pasha, the bey of Tunis, and Sidi Mohammed Ben Youssef, sultan of Morocco—face increasing French pressure alone.

Trying To Kill UN Too? Soviet Asked

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 17.—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-U. S. cause in this debate on new Wis) charged today the Soviet Union was aiming to overthrow the non-Communist world and de-manded whether the Russians were trying to kill off the United Nations as well.

Wiley delivered his blistering attack during special Political Committee debate on admission of new members. He accused the Russians of blocking U. N. action at every turn and of "taking the path of aggression" against her World War II allies.

Stung by the attack, Russia's V. A. Zorin demanded "two minutes" to break in on the list of speakers and answer the U. S. charges.

His face red with anger, Zorin declared, "Mr. Senator, you should know that slander and dirty innuendoes never helped solve international issues. These are arguments of the weak, not the strong."

CELEBRATE PIONEER FLIGHT OF THE WRIGHTS
Army Helicopters Hover Over Monument at Kitty Hawk

Sonic Sabrejets Boom Opening Of 50th Anniversary of Flight

KITTY HAWK, N. C., Dec. 17.—(UP)—Air Force Sabrejets streaked like silver arrows today over the spot where a "boxkite" plane lumbered 40 yards through the air 49 years ago to open the age of aviation. Diving dizzily, three jets screamed down from 43,000 feet over the Wright Brothers Memorial Monument. They broke through the sonic barrier with the boom of a thunderclap to salute the far-sighted brothers whose historic flight will be honored throughout the golden anniversary year. The double booms echoed three times and were reported heard plainly 75 miles away along the coast. By contrast, the first heavier-than-air flight by Orville and Wilbur Wright exactly 49 years ago was seen by a handful of general life.

Dock Probe Told Mayor Admitted Racket Link Lie

Claim Jersey City Executive
Met Waterfront Boss Secretly

By ARTHUR EVERETT

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Democratic Mayor John V. Kenny of Jersey City purportedly lied to a New York grand jury, then broke down and admitted a secret rendezvous with a notorious waterfront racketeer.

A record of the nine-month-old grand jury testimony was read by the New York State Crime Commission today at its inquiry into waterfront racketeering in the world's largest port. Kenny has refused to appear in person at the commission's public hearings.

After he made a clean breast of his midnight meeting with Anthony (Tony Bender) Strollo, Kenny was asked in the grand jury session: "Now, Mr. Mayor, I'm going to be very, very blunt with you. Will you tell this grand jury why you lied the last time you were before them?"

"Yes, I will," was the answer attributed to Kenny. "Because all my life I have been clean. I have never been associated with anybody of a poor reputation. I didn't want to have anybody believe that I would be involved with anybody with a reputation of that kind and I—I am certainly sorry. I regretted it as soon as I left here."

"The next day, you know, I called Mr. Hogan (Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan of Manhattan) and said that I wanted to come in and talk to him and—"

24 HOURS LATER
Kenny's grand jury defense of his reputation was made public 24 hours after commission witnesses swore his City Hall door was open to a motley crew of

Pier Boss Made $3,112 In Week, Official Says
NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Dominick Strollo, a night hiring boss on an Army pier in New Jersey, was said to have made as much as $3,112 a week—counting overtime—in handling Army cargoes.

James H. Sissel, vice-president of a stevedoring firm, gave this figure at a State Crime Commission hearing today. He said Strollo worked 117 hours that particular week but did not detail how he arrived at the pay figure.

Answers Refused
Alu took the witness stand but refused to answer any questions. Kenny's meeting with Strollo took place in the Warwick Hotel suite of singer Phil Regan last March 15. Last April, after Kenny admitted the conference, Dist. Atty. Hogan called it "an appalling demonstration of underworld domination of the waterfront."

Before the grand jury on March 25, Kenny purportedly denied even knowing Strollo, let alone conferring with him in secret. But he went back before the grand jury six days later to change his story.

Hogan labeled Strollo a notorious underworld character, a gangster with wide influence in New Jersey and New York.

The district attorney said Kenny went to the meeting under the impression that "Tony Bender could help him straighten out the situation on the waterfront."

Witnesses at the crime probe yesterday also said Kenny's election unleashed staggering lawless ness on the Jersey City waterfront.

In a statement last night, Kenny replied that the witnesses against him were irresponsible. He said they were giving the Crime Commission a completely unrealistic picture of the Jersey City waterfront.

$350 MILLION
The Crime Commission moved through another day of sensational hearings into waterfront rackets that are bleeding 350 million dollars a year from the great Port of New York.

The commission heard a New Jersey police detective, John Waldron, tell of a brazen bribe offer to "lay off the boys" on the Jersey waterfront.

Waldron said the offer of $10,000 in cash and a $75,000-a-year income from phantom pier jobs was made to himself and two other cops a year ago by Johnnie Alu of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association. Nothing ever came of it, the detective added.

HAPPY REUNION—DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 17.—Ernest Vickers, 57, embraces his wife Wednesday just before he was released on a conditional pardon by Governor Shivers of Texas. Mrs. Vickers made a personal appeal before the parole board in Austin for the release of her husband, held in Dallas for return to the state prison to complete a life sentence given in a murder case. Originally doomed to the gallows in the slaying of a railroad agent, he learned his sentence was commuted to life just 18 hours before going to the gallows.

Family of Killer Billy Cook Halts Exhibition of Body
GALENA, Kan., Dec. 17.—(UP)—The family of executed Billy Cook today abruptly halted the "Roman holiday" exhibition of his body in Comanche, Okla., and returned it here for a private funeral.

Relatives of the young criminal who killed six persons, including three children, canceled a mortician's plans for a public funeral after talking to the attorney who had tried to save Cook from California's lethal gas chamber.

Cook's body was carried to Galena in a black hearse, Mrs. Bertha Massengill, Cook's eldest sister, William E. Cook Sr., the murderer's 75-year old father, and Mrs. J. C. Stevenson, a sister-in-law, followed in another car.

Glen Boydston, a Comanche (Okla.) funeral director, said he had received permission from Cook's elderly father to claim the body after the execution last Friday.

Comanche, a town of 3,800 population, was jammed with visitors from 39 states. Store proprietors reported their businesses were booming.

The first word of disapproval of the demonstration came from Attorney John Connolly, who defended Cook in two trials without pay because he believed the 24-year-old killer's mind had been twisted by an unfortunate childhood.

Connolly called the display of the body a "Roman holiday."

Sailor Santa Ready For Orphanage Visit

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—A Santa Claus in Navy blue hopped out of a plane at Floyd Bennet Field today and supervised the unloading of 1,800 pounds of clothing and toys.

Santa is usually known as Joe Pestana, a Navy tailor aboard an attack transport in the Atlantic Fleet amphibious force.

Joe has been Santa in a smaller way for several years for the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin on Staten Island, the home of 1,000 orphans.

But the big load of gifts this year represents Joe's first all-out drive to provide the orphanage with a happy Christmas.

Starting with the co-operation of his commanding officer on the USS Sarasota, and the generosity of his own shipmates, Joe ended up not only with the huge pile of gifts but also with $700 in cash.

A story in the amphibious force newspaper "The Gator," asked other ships to donate toys and uniforms for Pestana to alter into Eisenhower jackets and other clothing.

When Joe's Santa Claus pack began piling up, officers at the Norfolk Naval Air Station offered a plane to fly it to New York.

The number one passenger on the plane was Joe himself. He

Indiana Seaplane Theft Trial Facing Trucker

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—A Chicago truck driver agreed today to go to Indiana, where he is charged with stealing a seaplane at Cedar Lake Sept. 6.

Floyd Strohmeier, 28, said his only connection with the plane was an ill-fated ride he took in it at the invitation, extended over a round of drinks, by a fellow driver.

His friend, who claimed ownership of the plane, failed as a pilot, Strohmeier related, and the craft turned turtle and sank while taxiing for a takeoff.

will act as Santa Claus at the mission Dec. 22.

Joe is a ship's serviceman tailor, first class, USNR. He expects to be discharged in January and he says he is going to attend night school on Staten Island and then teach tailoring to children in the mission.

When Joe dons his Santa Claus suit at the mission Dec. 22 he expects to be as happy as the orphans.

Joe spent 13 years in the same mission.

DISCUSSION

Many Nations Included in The Geisha

THE GEISHA—Operetta in Two Acts, by Sidney Jones. Soloists, chorus and orchestra of radio Berlin. Otto Dobrindt, conductor (Urania).

It took the talents of many nations to put this little known operetta on wax, but the effort was rewarded. This is a thoroughly delightful recording, done in the best tradition of the European recording artists. The operetta was written by an Englishman. Its story concerns the love of a British naval lieutenant for a Japanese geisha girl. And the lyrics on this recording are in German. The music is very pleasant and the voices are exceptional. Recording good. (P. J.)

CARNIVAL RHYTHMS — Percy Faith and his orchestra, Columbia.

Faith's heavily-manned orchestra has done better things, but this collection of carnival rhythms, mostly Latin in flavor, will be popular with Faith fans. The album is well done.

KURTZ & LA RUSSE—Etrian kurtz conducting the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra, Columbia (extended play).

Russian music, including the animated Sabre Dance, the sprightly Mazurka from Glinka's "Life of the Czar," and the glittering Polka from Shostakovich's "Age of Gold," make up this album designed for real listening pleasure. Good music, well played.

HANS FITZNER'S KLEINE INFONIE, OP. 44 AND SYMPHONY IN C MAJOR, OP. 46, Leipzig Orchestra, Herman Abend, conductor and Xaon State Orchestra, Karl Bomb, Conductor, Urania).

A-Scientist Ordained As Episcopal Minister

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Dec. 17—(P)—The Episcopal Church issued holy orders to atomic scientist William G. Pollard today. Dr. Pollard was ordained as a minister of the Diocese of Tennessee in the candle-lit sanctuary of St. Stephen's Church where he had received the "stimulation" for his undertaking.

His four sons, garbed like their father in black cassocks and white vestments, served as acolytes and preceded him to the altar of the small stone church.

Before Pollard, 41, was formally ordained as a member of the Sacred Order of Deacons, the Rt. Rev. Thomas N. Carruthers told the 350 co-workers and friends of the husky physicist that "the more science we have, the more genuine religion is essential." Carruthers, bishop of South Carolina and Pollard's rector in his college days, said in his sermon it is foolish to believe that "greater scientific power will save the world."

"Power is only instrumental," he said. "The real issue is with the moral and spiritual character of the people who control it. If it is wielded by good will, it can be used to build that fine social order which St. John saw

Bombers Blast 5 Millionth Targets Deep In N. Korea Delta Fare Is a Girl, 4

SEOUL, Dec. 18—(INS)—American B-29 Superforts flew deep into northwest Korea last night and dumped 100 tons of explosives on the Communist officers' training school and supply area at Yongsan, 10 miles north of Anju on the Chongchon River.

Two other Superforts struck the smaller Communist officers' staff school south of Kyompo. Red night fighters were observed over both targets and some enemy flak burst in the sky around the Superforts but the attacks were carried out with "good to excellent" results.

On the ground, South Korean troops repulsed three small Communist jabs at Sniper Ridge while Red artillery fire along the front dropped to its lightest volume in weeks with only 4,238 rounds being expended against Allied positions. American Sabrejets soaring over MIG Alley Wednesday knocked down one Russian-built MIG-15 and sent another four home with battle damage.

The Sabres, flying top cover for low-flying fighter-bombers, ranged far into North Korea despite winds that rose to 100-mile-an-hour gale proportions.

Private Funeral Slated in Miami For Dr. Ashe

Private funeral services will be held in Miami for Dr. Bowman F. Ashe, 67, president of the University of Georgia faculty for 36 years, died unexpectedly here today.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at the Athens First Methodist Church. Burial will be in Athens.

Professor Collins joined the faculty in 1916, having graduated from the university the same year. Since that time his work as a teacher and researcher in the field of agronomy and his work in student activities made him one of the university's best-known professors.

Professor Collins was born and educated in Douglas County. He joined the university faculty as an agronomy instructor and became head of the Department of Agronomy in 1938.

At the time of his death he was faculty adviser to three student organizations.

Professor Collins, a veteran of World War I, was nationally known in the field of agronomy, and had made important contributions to research in this field.

He was a member of the American Society of Agronomy, the Soil Science Society of America, the Georgia Academy of Science, Alpha Zeta, Alpha Gamma Rho, Agathon, Sphinx and was a steward in the First Methodist Church.

Professor Collins is survived by his wife, the former Harriet Brandon Lawson; four sisters, Mrs. W. M. Morris and Mrs. C. H. Watkins of Douglasville; Mrs. F. E. Walton of Powder Springs, and Mrs. A. A. Gideon of Atlanta, and two brothers, Vivian Collins of Palmetto and S. M. Collins of Oregon.

Seated in the congregation were Pollard's 87-year-old grandmother and his wife, whose "insistence on a Christian marriage and a Christian environment for our children" spurred him to become a minister.

Pollard, who worked on the atomic bomb during World War II, will now wear his new clerical collar on his job as executive director of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

He will devote his ministry to assisting the record of St. Stephen's, conducting services at St. Francis' Mission in the town of Norris, Tenn., home of Norris Dam, and otherwise assisting in the church "as time permits."

SEAMEN SAVED FROM SPLIT SHIP—LEGHORN, Dec. 17—A seaman in the canvas sling of a breeches buoy apparatus, left, is hauled ashore from the stern half of the U. S. Navy supply ship Grommet Reefer which was split in half off Leghorn, Italy. All 39 men aboard were rescued. In the top photo, a sailor hangs perilously off a ship's ladder as a small rescue boat approaches.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—(INS)—Delta Air Line officials were in a dither today when their five millionth passenger turned out to be a four-year-old girl, but they went ahead with their planned celebration and sent the lot winging to Miami in a giant DC-6 loaded with adult presents.

The girl, dark-haired Marcia Chapman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. B. M. Chapman of Chicago, was presented a matched set of luggage and a doll that air line officials picked up at the last minute.

Then she was made an honorary stewardess and helped herself and 55 other passengers to a huge cake.

At the other end of the line, Miami Beach, Mayor Lee Powell made a last minute switch so his eight-year-old daughter could substitute for him in greeting the guest of honor.

Final Rites Slated for Prof. Collins

ATHENS, Dec. 17—Prof. W. O. Collins, 61, a member of the University of Georgia faculty for 36 years, died unexpectedly here today.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Thursday at the Athens First Methodist Church. Burial will be in Athens.

Bus-Train Crash Claims $1,100,000

Joyce Ellington, a 16-year-old Roswell High School student, who was injured May 9 in the East Point school bus-train collision, filed suit Wednesday, asking $50,000 damages from the Atlanta and West Point Railroad and Walter Doris, bus driver.

Miss Ellington's claim brings to $1,100,000 total damages asked by occupants of the bus.

The girl's petition contended that Doris should have stopped the bus at the crossing and that the A. and W. P. engineer was exceeding the legal speed limit inside East Point.

Ike To Brief GOP Solons On Program

Inflation Control High on Agenda

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—General Eisenhower announced today he had arranged a series of meetings with Republican leaders in Congress to develop an administration legislative program for dealing with government reorganization, inflation control and other vital issues.

The first of these meetings will take place tomorrow at the Eisenhower temporary headquarters in the Commodore Hotel. Those invited to attend are Representatives Martin of Massachusetts, the prospective speaker of the new House; Halleck of Indiana, the prospective majority leader, and Arends of Illinois, the prospective majority whip.

SENATE MEETING

A meeting with Republican leaders in the new Senate will follow promptly, probably some time between Christmas and New Year's. Those invited include Senators Bridges of New Hampshire, Taft of Ohio, Milliken of Colorado, and Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

"These meetings will be helpful in developing a legislative program which will deserve the united support of the Congress and the people," Eisenhower said in his announcement, distributed by James C. Hagerty, his press secretary.

"These conferences will take up a wide range of public questions such as the reorganization of the executive branch of the government, methods of controlling inflation and, of course, many other vital issues relating to foreign and domestic policy."

CO-OPERATION PLAN

They will include a discussion of "the best methods of co-operation between the executive and legislative branches of the government," the announcement said. It appeared today that the President-elect might be subject to heavy pressure from Republican senators and representatives, as well as the Republican party organizations in the states, to give a high priority in his legislative program to a reconsideration of President Truman's recent reorganizations of the Post Office Department and the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

8 of 9 in Family Die as Fuel Fire Blast Level Home

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 17—Eight of a nine-member family perished today in a kerosene explosion and fire that leveled their small frame home near here.

They were Hilton Bryant, 29; his 31-year-old wife and six of their seven children, ranging in age from 9 months to 9 years.

The only survivor, 12-year-old Shirley Bryant, was reported to be in serious condition at a Little Rock hospital. Attendees said she was burned over half of her body.

Shirley told officers her father arose about 4 a. m. to start a fire in a heating stove in the middle of the three-room house.

Deputy Sheriff Johnny Hardin said the explosion, which was heard a mile away and touched off the flash fire, apparently occurred when Hilton poured kerosene into the stove.

Japs in A-Bomb Casualty Group Threaten Strike If Bonus Withheld

HIROSHIMA, Dec. 18—(Thursday)—(INS)—The 356 Japanese employees of the American Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission today threatened to strike for a year-end bonus equivalent to three months' salary for each worker.

The workers reportedly were ready to turn down a Hiroshima Labor Relations Board mediation award of 10,000 yen ($27.22). The ABCC is working in conjunction with Japanese government and health officials in a long-range effort to learn the effects of the atom bomb on people who lived through it.

Year-end bonus payments are customary in Japan.
